AS NAT LOUBET SEES IT

THE Ring is delighted to welcome Bobby Lee, of Hawaii, as the new president of the World Boxing Association.

It hears nothing but good things about Lee, his dedication to boxing, his determination to make his administration memorable in the archives of the WBA.

In recent years the influence of the WBA had waned to a point at which its authority had been flouted with abandon, its mistakes many, and the necessity for its being in the field questioned.

The WBA developed a flair for making the wrong decision.

This resulted in the setting up of disputed champions and the increasing bewilderment of the boxing public.

Lee says that his first objective is to clear up dubious and doubtful claims to titles.

What with the increasing velocity of short tenures for world champions, the fight-going public finds itself bewildered.

In fact, growing bewilderment is the standard reaction in virtually every form of professional sport, taking in baseball, football, basketball and hockey. There are so many teams in so many leagues that the general public is puzzled.

This is caused by the presence of too many clubs in cities which cannot support major league representation.

This situation should not exist in boxing, with its limited scope. There are only ten standard weight divisions in professional boxing and every effort should be made to clarify championships and to keep the public knowledgeable as to the right and proper holders of the various titles.

Precise knowledge as to what is going on in world boxing is necessary for the success of the sport.

Arriving at this precise knowledge is not always aided in high places.

For example. When Rodolfo Gonzalez, listed as a junior welter, whipped Chango Carmona, classified as a lightweight, the New York Times headline called the winner the lightweight champion.

Gonzalez had not won any title other than an imaginary one existing only in the jumbled archives of the World Boxing Council, which has some standing in the Far East, the Philippines and Mexico.

The true lightweight champion of the world was, and still is, Roberto Duran, of Panama, who had whipped Ken Buchanan.

Let me take up the situation in the welterweight division. The real champion is Jose Napoles, of Mexico. He is a class fighter, who after having lost the welter title to Billy Backus, of Syracuse, had knocked him out in four rounds in Los Angeles.

The true champion of the welterweight class is Napoles. It is not Hedgemon Lewis, who is designated as the titleholder because he had beaten Backus.

The New York State Commission's history is not plentifully speckled with support of boxers who were not world champions.

But the present Commission, Eddie Dooley chairman, has held to the support of Lewis as the champion.

Dooley finds himself in obscure company on that issue. Napoles is the champion and he can lose the welter title only if he is beaten, or retires.

Having gotten the welterweight class into the mess, the New York Commission should see to it, at the earliest, that the mistake is rectified and the supremacy of Napoles is not aspersed.

The case against Napoles, as stated by the New York Commission, and happily not backed by the WBA, is so muddled that not even so able a lawyer as Jim Fuscas, the New York Commission's counsel, can establish a direct line between the world championship and Lewis.

Fortunately for boxing, there no longer is any doubt as to the world leadership in the heavyweight class, which is held by Joe Frazier. Muhammad Ali announced his retirement, Frazier knocked out Jimmy Ellis, who had won a WBA elimination tournament, and that set up Joe as the true and undisputed champion of the big men.

Mr. Lee's catalogue of musts includes the elimination of referees and judges who are incompetent, biased and generally unqualified.

There is a gradual elimination of the political agent in the voting echelon. The WBA can help to clean this up further and chase out the officials who are known as homers.

A similar crusade is recommended to the boxing authorities in Italy, where, say imported fighters, a visitor must score a knockout to win—and isn't sure, even then, that he will get the decision.

I delegate, to Bobby Lee, another and not so easy job—the elimination of the stiff and the palpable mismatch. Go to it, Bobby!

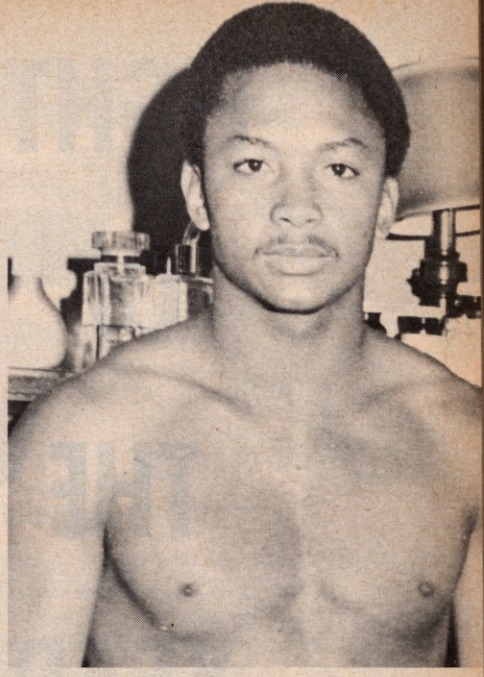
3-TONY MUNDINE

MUNDINE, about whom little was known outside of Australia before 1972, made himself a contender for world championship laurels. During the year he had seven matches, each of which produced a victory. Tony's outstanding success came on April 14, when he knocked out Bunny Sterling, of England, in the 15 round for the Commonwealth title. Mundine started 1972 with a two-round KO of George Carter. Then came victories over Foster Bibron, Sterling, Denny Moyer, Juarez De Lima, Antonio Aguilar and Roy Lee. Mundine is an Aborigine.

4-ENRIQUE PINDER

PINDER, a native of Panama, which had spectacular success in rings everywhere in 1972, had five fights this past year and won all of them by decision. Pinder won the bantam title on July 30, 1072, at Panama City, where he scored a 15-round victory over Rafael Herrera. Pinder closed his competitive year on November 14 with a 10-round victory over Chucho Castillo, at Los Angeles. He scored a 10-round decision over Heleno Ferreyra, of Brazil, the South American champion. He had beaten Senen Rios in 12, and disposed of Memo Espinosa in 10.



5-ESTEBAN DeJESUS

IN Esteban DeJesus of Puerto Rico, the lightweight class boasts a formidable challenger for the title now held by Roberto Duran of Panama. That DeJesus is a dangerous threat was demonstrated in New York on November 17, 1972, when he scored a decisive victory over Roberto in a ten-round non-title fight. DeJesus' had eight fights in 1972. His knockouts were scored over George Foster and Josue Marquez. Esteban started the year with a 10-round decision over Percy Hayles. Later came decisions over Angel Robinson Garcia, Chuck Wilburn, Raymundo Dias and Doc McClendon.

By DAN DANIEL

PICKING the Fighter of the Year for 1972 presented problems which The Ring staff found without solution other than to split the citation between Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay), former heavyweight champion of the world, and Carlos Monzon, of the Argentine, current middleweight titleholder.

Dividing the Fighter of the Year laurels was not without precedent. The Ring did it for the first time in 1934, when it split the honors between Barney Ross and Tony Canzoneri, in full justice to both.

The Ring Magazine originated the Fighter of the Year award in 1928, when it went to Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey's two-time conqueror.

In splitting the 1972 award between Ali and Carlos, the Ring honored a non-American, from South America, for the seventh time. The outlanders who achieved the major distinction were; Max Schmeling, Germany, 1930; Ingemar Johansson, Sweden, 1958; Johansson again, 1959; Dick Tiger, Nigeria, 1962; Tiger

FIGHT OF THE YEAR

By GEORGE GIRSCH

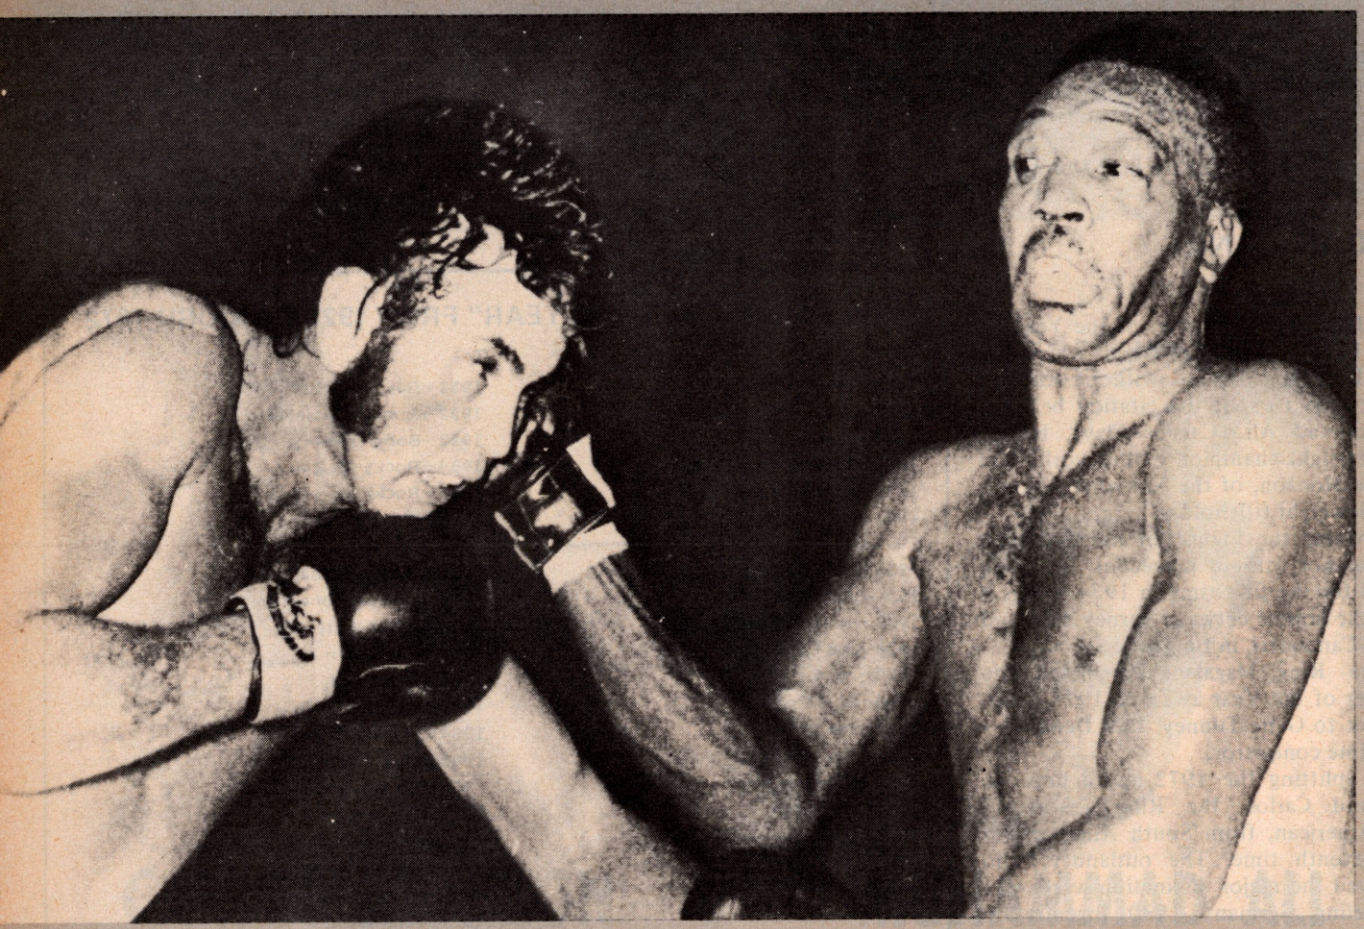
OF the thousands of bouts held throughout the world during 1972, the outstanding one chosen by The Ring's Board of Selectors was the contest in which Bob Foster defended his light heavyweight title by stopping Britain's Chris Finnegan in the 14th round in London, on September 26.

The chief runners-up included the matches between Carlos Monzon and Bennie Briscoe; Tony Mundine and Bunny Sterling; Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay) and Bob Foster; Ben Villaflor and Victor Echegaray; and Roberto Duran and Ken Buchanan.

Even though Finnegan ended up the loser, he received the biggest ovation accorded a British boxer in many years in recognition of his courageous and game effort against one of the best 175-pound titleholders ever to hold the crown.

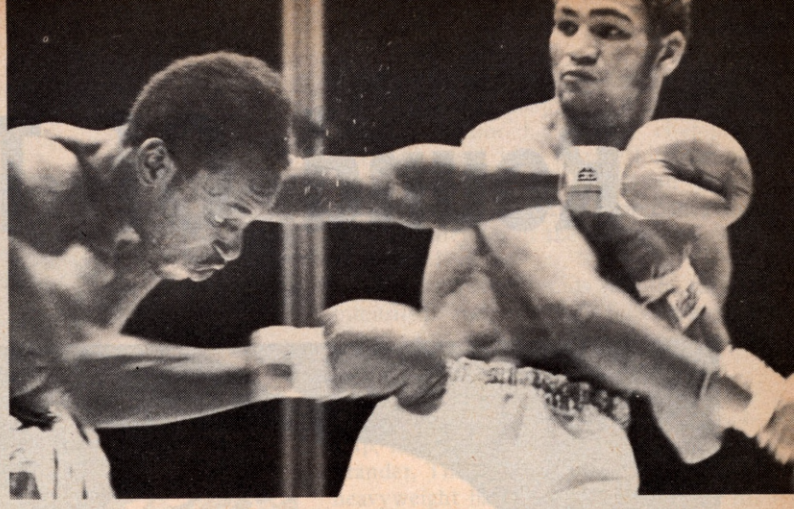
When the match was made between Foster and Finnegan, no one gave Chris much of a chance to beat the American, whose height and reach had discouraged many a foe. Nevertheless, the Briton was determined to do his best for God and country, and acquitted himself admirably throughout.

There were many occasions during the thriller at the Wembley Pool when Finnegan appeared to be outboxing Foster. And there also were many times that Chris was on the verge of being halted in his tracks. But there was no time that Finnegan gave ground easily nor gave the impression he was a beaten man and ready to give up against a more talented and harder-hitting foe.



BOB FOSTER VS. CHRIS FINNEGAN, SEPT. 26, 1972

2-MONZON-BRISCOE



3-MUNDINE-STERLING

RATED the second best contest of 1972 was the battle of Buenos Aires between middleweight king Carlos Monzon and challenger Bennie Briscoe, of Philadelphia before a full house at Luna Park on November 11. While there was no doubt that Monzon was the clear victor, it was an interesting contest all the way. Briscoe's best chance came in the ninth round when he staggered the champion with a right cross to the jaw. Carlos appeared dazed but came out of it okay, going on to take a 15-round decision, winning 10 rounds. Monzon weighed 158, Briscoe a pound less.

NEXT best was Tony Mundine's capturing the British Commonwealth middleweight title from Bunny Sterling via a 15th-round knockout at Brisbane, Australia, on April 14. Mundine boxed well throughout against the man he had fought a draw against the previous year.

A left hook to the jaw floored Sterling in the 12th for a count of eight. Sterling came back to win the 13th, but then came the fateful 15th. Mundine unleashed that left hook again, Sterling going down for nine. A few moments later, Sterling again was floored for nine. The end was now near as Mundine again hammered Sterling to the floor, thus ending the bout with 37 seconds to go.

While Finnegan was never ahead at any point of the contest, he was never really out of it, either, until he was halted by Foster in the 14th session.

Finnegan, a southpaw, weighed 173¾, to Foster's 174¼. His lefthanded style didn't appear to puzzle Bob to any great extent, though southpaws are usually a bit harder to fathom than orthodox boxers.

It was figured by the experts that any outside chance Finnegan had would be enhanced if the bout went the distance. Thus Chris backpedalled and danced during the early going, attempting to avoid Foster's hard jabs. But the light heavy king used his height and reach to get through the challenger's defenses quite often.

5-VILLAFLOR-ECHEGARAY

6-DURAN-BUCHANAN

THE fourth best bout of 1972 was the contest at Stateline, Nev. on November 21, in which Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay) knocked out Bob Foster, the light heavyweight king, in the eighth round.

For the first time in his career, Clay left the ring with his face cut and with a bruise under his eye. Nevertheless, Ali, outweighing his foe by 41 pounds, floored him four times in the fifth round and twice in the seventh before disposing of him at 40 seconds of the eighth.

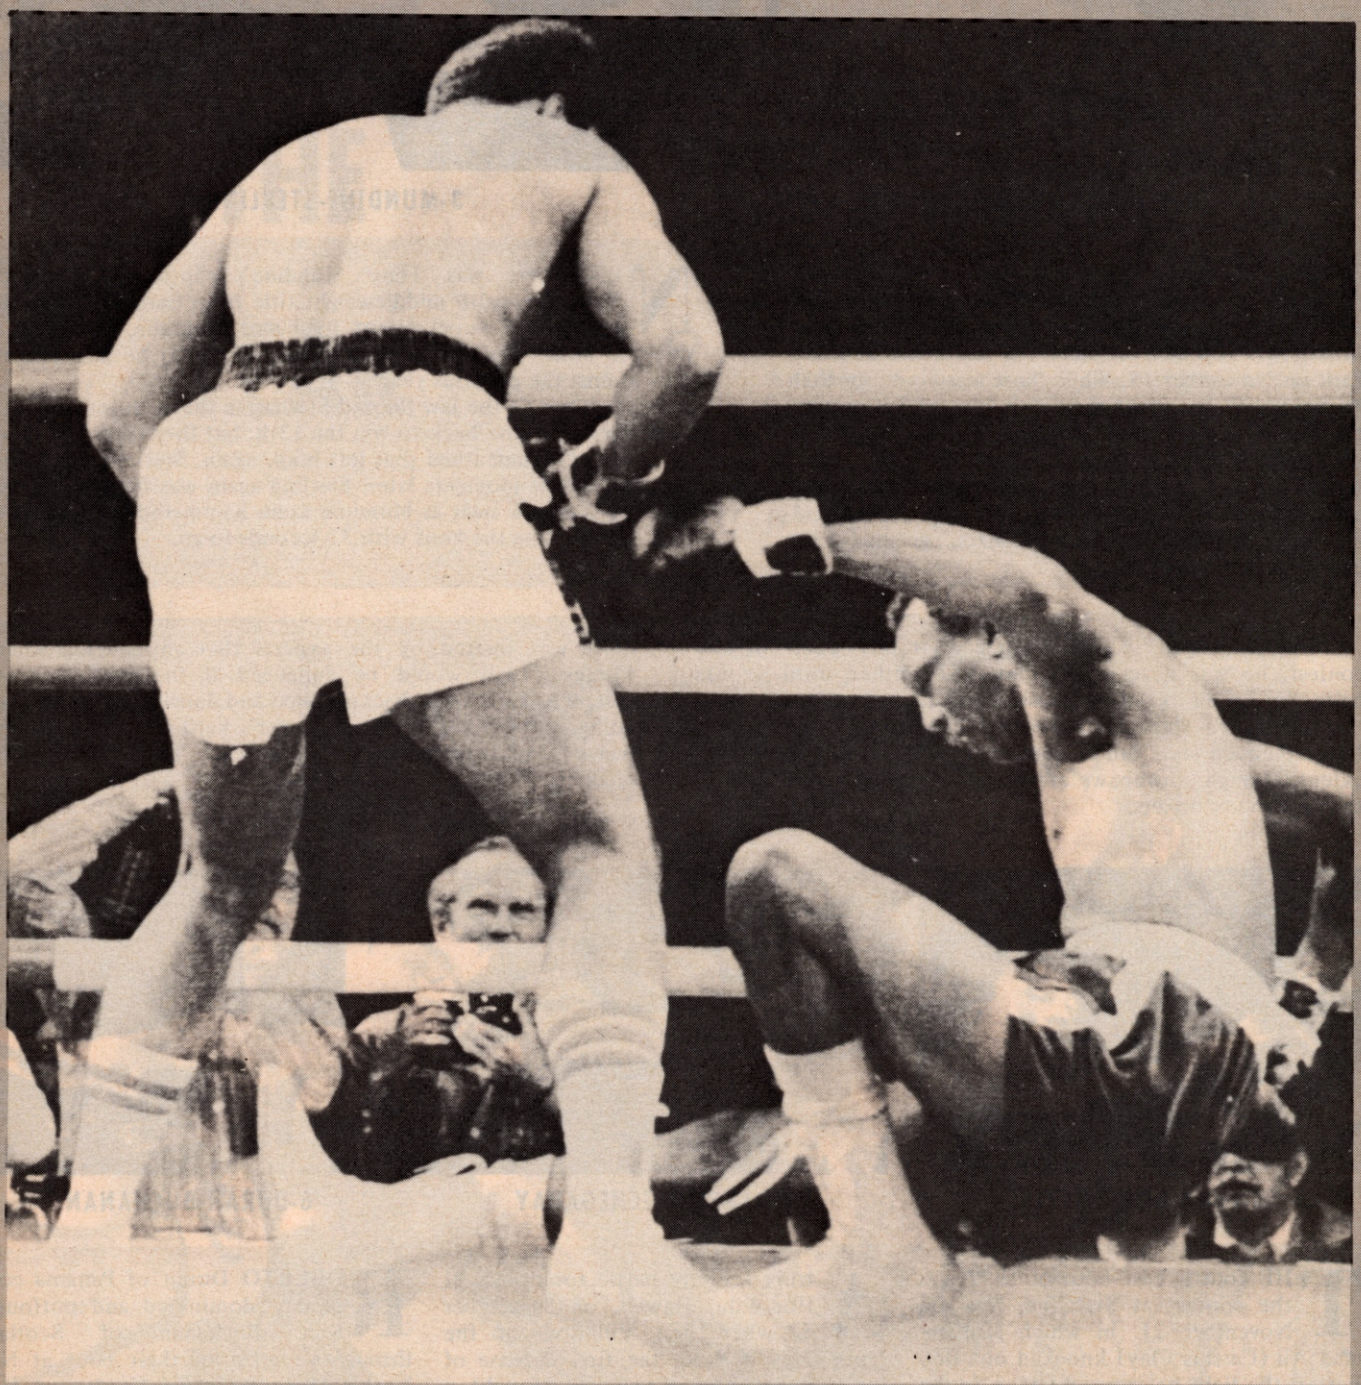
A truly scrappy battle took place at Honolulu, Hawaii, on September 5, when Ben Villaflor, of the Philippines, making the first defense of his junior lightweight crown, fought a 15-round draw against Argentina's Victor Echegaray.

Villaflor, who had been the overwhelming favorite, fought with his left eye tightly closed throughout the last three rounds. His face looked as if it had been through a shredder as well. Echegaray's best round was the fourth.

ROBERTO Duran of Panama completely dominated and outfought Ken Buchanan of Scotland throughout most of their bout at New York's Madison Square Garden on June 26 to capture the world lightweight title. The referee stopped the bout after the 13th round.

The contest had a rather bizarre ending, as Buchanan writhed on the canvas, insisting he was fouled during a flurry of punches following the bell ending the 13th.

Round Of The Year



ALI-BOB FOSTER 5th

By NAT LOUBET

OF necessity, picking the Round of the Year has to do with material furnished by important contests, mainly in title competition.

It is possible that a couple of Mexican battlers belting away at each other in some out of the way bull ring in Mexico put on the wildest and most gory struggle in world boxing. But who hears the details? Who knows what actually happened?

As a consequence, the Round of the Year concerns itself with definite knowledge of what happened in fights of importance, usually in championship competition.

Sorting out the numerous entries for Round of the Year 1972 we find these five leading contenders for the honors in the order of selection:

*1–The fifth in the Muhammad Ali-Bob Foster fight, in which the light heavyweight champion was stopped in the eighth round at Stateline, Nev.

*2–The 10th in the battle in London which saw Bob Foster stop Chris Finnegan, of Britain, in the 14th round.

*3–The 13th and last round of the match in which Roberto Duran stopped Ken Buchanan in New York and relieved the clever Scot of the world title.

*4–The ninth round of the battle at Buenos Aires in which Carlos Monzon, world middleweight champion, defeated Bennie Briscoe by decision in 15 rounds.

*5–In the match in which Ben Villaflor, junior lightweight champion, put on a great rally to save his title, the big round was the 13th, and it got Villaflor a draw with Victor Echegaray, No. 1 contender in the 130 pound class, at Honolulu.

These five big rounds were of varying intensity, and varying importance in fights which had varying influence on the fistic scene.

Since Joe Frazier did not actually defend his world heavyweight championship, meeting only Terry Daniels and Ron Stander, The Ring selectors had no world heavyweight battle in which to search for an entry for the Round of the Year.

The fight in which Bob Foster knocked out Chris Finnegan in 13 rounds had a striking aftermath. Waiting only six weeks for another outing, and evidently miscalculating the physical effect of the beating he got from Foster, Finnegan took on Rudi Schmidtke, of Germany, in defense of the European cruiserweight title. Finnegan, stopped in the 13th suffered perhaps the major upset defeat of the year.

Of the five leading rounds selected, only one did not involve a world championship. That was the Muhammad Ali-Foster contest. Ali stopped Bob but he could not lay claim to a title in a division with a 175-pound limit.

In the Foster-Finnegan fight, the Brit-

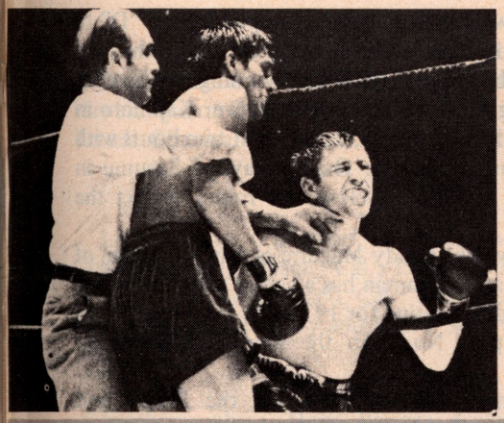
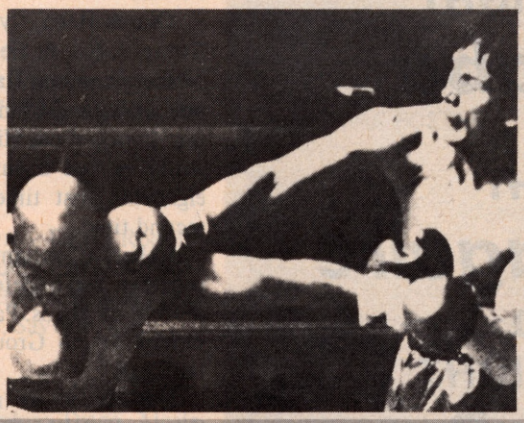
FOSTER–FINNEGAN 10TH

THIS was the round in which Finnegan was decked for the first time in his career. Up to the 10th Chris appeared to have a desperate chance. Could be Chris was lulled into a sense of security–a feeling that he might make it yet. But in the 10th the American exploded a right which sent Chris to the canvas. Finnegan was down for eight. On arising he carried the fight to Bob. The bell ending the 10th found Finnegan with both eyes cut, his face messed up, but his spirit still very much alive. He was knocked out in the 14th.



DURAN–BUCHANAN 13TH

THIS was the last round of a fight in which Duran gave Buchanan a sound beating and stopped him in the 13th. The end came amid wild excitement, claims and counter-claims. Photographs of the round indicate that the loser was struck a foul blow after the session had ended and perhaps had laid himself open to disqualification. Buchanan insisted that he had been struck or kicked in the groin. It was a riotous round all the way, with the Scot making a desperate effort to stave off certain defeat by a stronger foe from Panama.



MONZON–BRISCOE 9TH

THE ninth round of the fight in which Carlos Monzon, middleweight champion of the world, beat Bennie Briscoe was one of the standout heats in world boxing during the year 1972. It was not a round in which Monzon rallied to take the lead and organize a title-saving foray. But it was a riotous round in a contest which saw the Argentinian win by a big margin. He took ten of the 15 rounds by definite margins. In the ninth, Briscoe landed a right cross to the champion's cheek and put Carlos on Queer Street.

VILLAFLOR–ECHEGARAY 13TH

THE 13th round in the fight in which Ben Villaflor, of the Philippines, saved his junior world title against Victor Echegaray, of the Argentine, was one of the outstanding wars of world boxing in 1972. Going into that heat the South American appeared to have outscored Villaflor and an upset seemed to be imminent. But the favorite summoned everything he had in reserve and in the 13th managed to gain that slight advantage which kept him the champion. Villaflor scored with a short right to the jaw. It was the only knockdown of the 45-minute battle.

THE Progress Award is given strictly on the basis of statistics. A boxer who makes the biggest jump in the ratings from the year before is eligible. For example, a boxer rated "D" last year who moved up to the Top Ten of his division would be making a big move. That would be Progress with a capital P.

Six candidates are listed for the 1972 award. They are Bert Nabalatan, of the Philippines, winner for 1972; Romero Anaya, Mexico; Osamu Haba, Japan; Paddy Maguire, Ireland; Jose King Roman, Puerto Rico; and Danny Lopez, Los Angeles, Calif.

Nabalatan is a transplanted Filipino who now resides in Hawaii. This southpaw 126-pounder engaged in nine bouts this year, winning eight, losing only to former featherweight king Kunaiki Shibata in ten. He scored kayos over Tony Romero, in 3; Ricardo Garcia, 10; Sal Montano, 6; Kimio Shindo, 1; Rafael Lopez, 7, and his biggest, an eight-round victory over world featherweight champion Clemente Sanchez in a non-title affair.

His other two wins were 10 round nods over Jose Herrera and Momo Rodriguez. All of Bert's fights were in Honolulu.

Nabalatan has won this honor by moving up from a "D" classification to Group 1, No. 2 in the world featherweight ratings.

The No. 2 man is Mexican bantamweight Romero Anaya. He came out of nowhere to end the year ranking Group 1, No. 5. Romero went to the post four times, winning all.

He kayoed Kazuyoshi Kanazawa, 5 rounds; outpointed Italy's Franco Zurlo and fellow Mexican Julio Guerrero in ten.

Anaya's latest win was a kayo over Sal Carrillo. He is one of the crowd favorites in Los Angeles, and also boxes below the border.

Osamu Haba, flyweight from Japan, jumped from a "D" to Group 2, No. 6. He is considered the brightest star in the land of the rising sun. Haba fought four times, winning two, getting one draw, and losing once. He drew with Beaver Kajimoto in ten, knocked out Hideki Watanuki, 2, and split two bouts with world ranked Susumu Hanagata. Osamu kayoed Susumu in eight the first time and lost a close ten round verdict the second time.

Ireland's bantamweight Paddy Maguire is our No. 4 man of progress. The undefeated Irishman has a career mark of 14-0-1, scoring 11 kayos. Paddy's rating for 1971 was "C". In 1972 he moved up to Group 2, No. 2 in the world bantamweight rankings.

Maguire is to meet Johnny Clark for the British and Commonwealth title. He has earned this shot and our recognition by scoring four wins this past year. Paddy decisioned both John Mitchell and Guy Caudion. He kayoed Abdesselen Ben Salah and former British champion Johnny McCluskey.

The "Cinderella story" of the year has to be our No. 5 boxer, Puerto Rico's heavyweight Jose Roman. Jose has been campaigning since 1966. Roman boxed in New York until 1968. Then he returned to Puerto Rico, where he's been since, except for a few bouts in Florida. During those years he defeated Jack O'Halloran, Chuck Wepner, Charlie Polite and Manuel Ramos. In 1971 Roman was ranked no better than a "C". For 1972, we find him the seventh best rated heavyweight in the world. How was this accomplished? Jose scored five good wins last year. He beat Brian O'Melia, Terry Daniels and Jose Urtain in tens. He kayoed both Charlie Polite and Tony Ventura. His overall mark as a pro now stands at 40-7-1, kayoing 20.

Last but far from least is Los Angeles featherweight Danny Lopez. The younger brother of welterweight contender Ernie Lopez was rated a "C" in 1971. Danny started his career in 1971 and has one of the most impressive records in the world today. He has boxed 13 times, winning all by kayos. He's now in Group 2, No. 2.

This year Lopez engaged in six contests. He knocked out Benny Rodriguez, 1; Jose Orantes, 2; Rafael Lopez, 2; Arturo Pineda, 4; Jose Luis Valdovinos, 4 and Jorge Reyes, 7.

ROUNDUP OF THE YEAR

By NAT LOUBET

TO shout "Hip, hip, hooray" for the 1972 year in world boxing would be a laudable exercise. But it would lack necessary ingredients in quantum to make it a truly convincing commentary on what the ring year produced.

Except in Latin America, 1972 was marked by a pronounced lull, which, it is hoped, will be followed by a storm of action this year.

The big lack in 1972 had to do with the heavyweight division. There was no real fight for the heavyweight title.

As the United States is so heavily interested in the unlimited weight class and its standouts, the failure of titleholder Joe Frazier and challenger Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay) to meet in their widely discussed return match kept boxing from enjoying a really smashing success this past year.

After Frazier had beaten Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay) decisively in New York on March 8, 1971, with each fighter collecting $2,500,000, it was believed that they would strike again while the iron was hot and meet sometime in 1972.

But here it is 1973 and there are no indications that they are near accepting the financial offers presented to them, notably by Jack Kent Cooke, who owns The Forum in Inglewood, Cal., near Los Angeles.

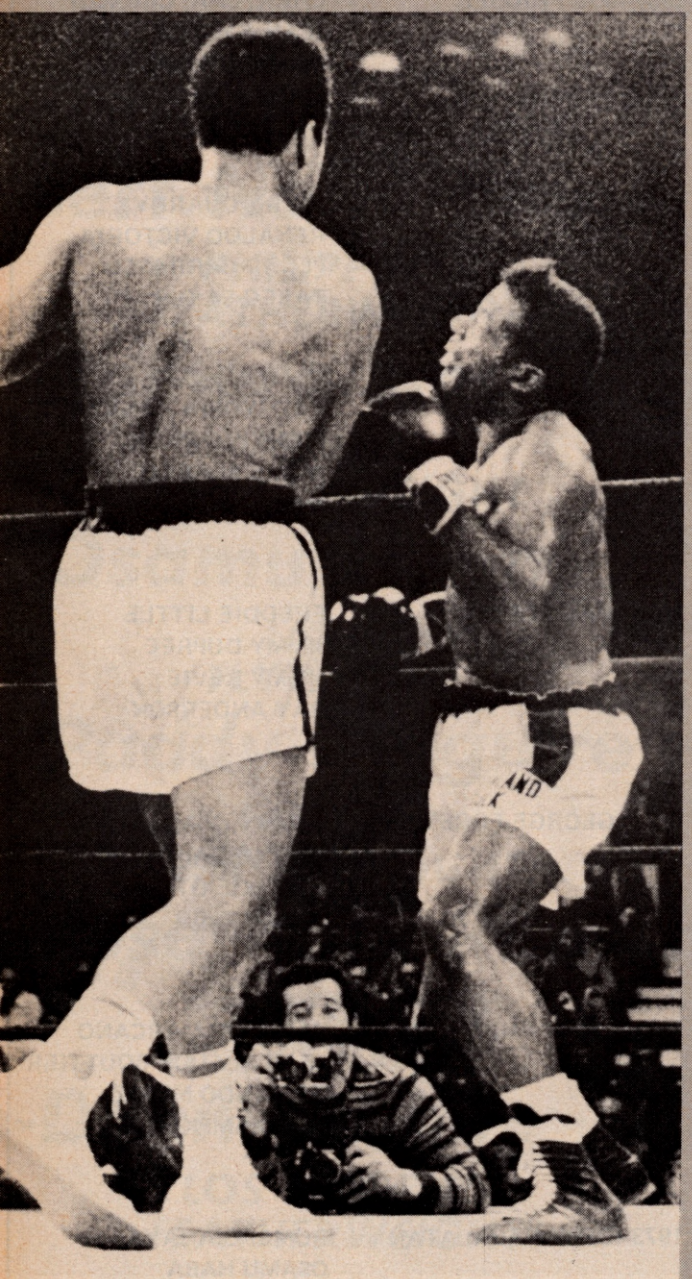
Cooke, who set up the New York fight between Frazier and Cassius with financial guarantees holds an option on the return match.

When this document was signed it called for $750,000 for each boxer. Cooke has expressed a willingness to disregard this offer and to raise the ante to impressive figures. But he has not talked about giving each fighter another two and a half million dollars.

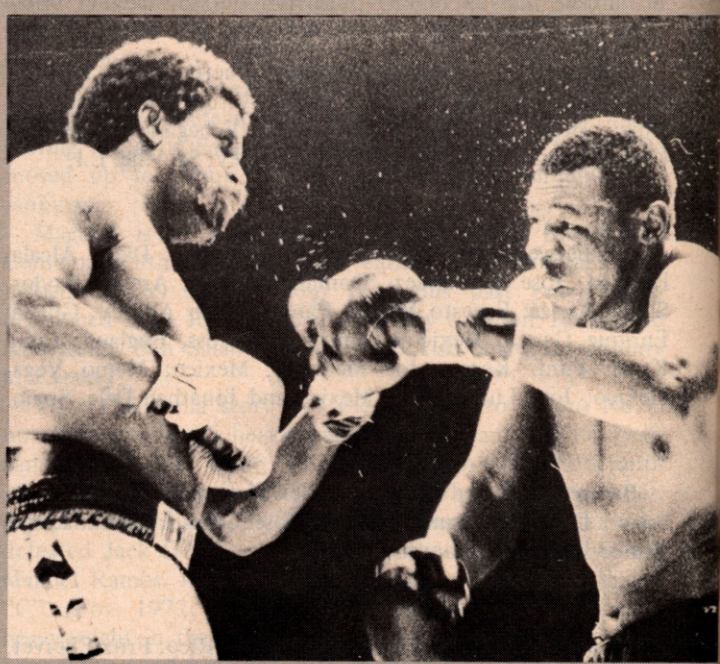
Cooke has expressed a desire to negotiate on a businesslike, logical basis. Frazier and Ali have translated this to mean lavish returns in the vicinity of three millions each.

And so it came about that 1972 produced no meeting of Joe and Cassius.

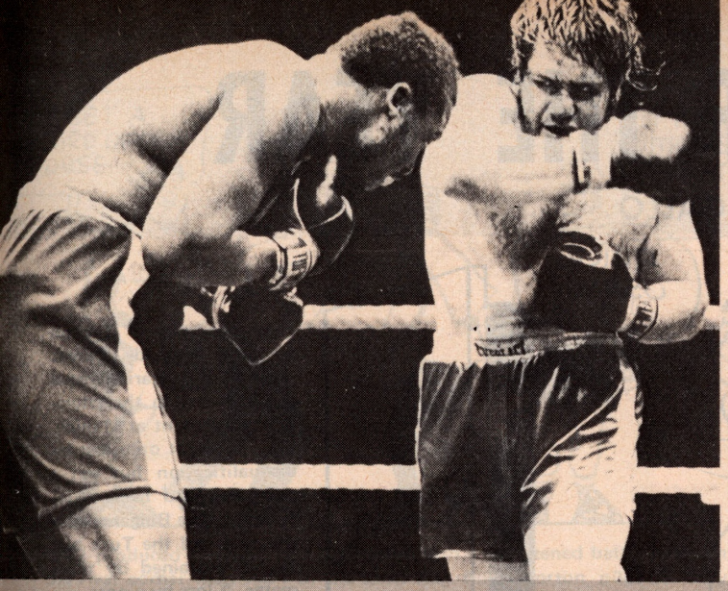
Frazier did not elate heavyweight fans by scoring knockouts over Terry Daniels, in four rounds, and Ron Stander in five. In neither match was Frazier thrown into a profuse sweat.



Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay) has just connected with a hard right to Floyd Patterson's chin during the seventh round of their Madison Square Garden meeting. The bout was stopped with Clay declared the victor on a seven-round TKO.



Ron Lyle (left) in an exchange with Luiz Pires at the Denver Coliseum, with Lyle stopping his man at 2:55 of the third heat.



Heavyweight king Joe Frazier ducks a Ron Stander punch before going on to halt the challenger in the fifth round of their Omaha meeting.

Frazier's other 1972 opponent was Terry Daniels, whose knees buckle during the fourth round of their New Orleans meeting. Referee Herman Dutreix halted matters at 1:45 of the fourth session.

Ali had six fights in 1972. Only one of them developed a true test of Ali. His most interesting encounter was the November fight at Stateline, Nev. in which he stopped Bob Foster, the light heavy titleholder, in Round No. 8. Frazier had KOed Bob in two heats in November, 1970.

Two heavyweights developed impressive stature among the contenders. One was Ron Lyle, of Denver, who won eight straight, and the other was George Foreman, winner of five more, which kept him No. 2 contender in the ratings but failed to produce an electric response among the fans.

England failed to produce a standout threat to American heavies. Joe Bugner recovered the heavyweight championship of Europe by beating Jurgen Blin but Joe hardly is qualified to scare Uncle Sam.

Foreman finally came out of the ranks of the mediocre for a major test when he signed to fight Frazier at Jamaica, West Indies, on January 22. As this is written there is no substantial belief that heavyweight fans are in for a surprise.

The United States suffered through a status quo through 1972.

But there was unusual excitement in Latin America, especially in little Panama and in Mexico.

Boxing picked up some in the Philippines, which have unsettled political and economic conditions.

Japan, hitherto a source of interesting ring news month after month, suffered a staggering blow in 1972.

The powerful television interests which had been doing so much for boxing for some years, suddenly withdrew their support, forcing many Japanese fighters to seek a living in Light heavyweight titleholder Bob Foster is dazed as he listens to the referee count him out in the eighth round of his meeting with Clay. Foster was down seven times in the bout, held at Stateline, Nev.

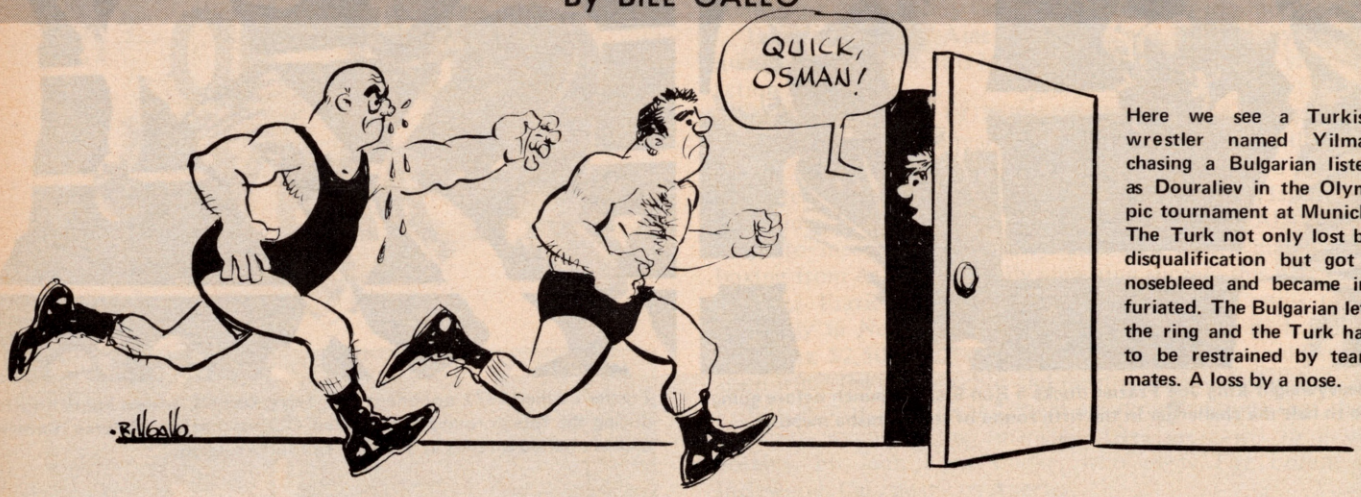
Frazier gets some moral support as he works out at the Playboy Club Hotel in McAfee, N.J. in preparation for the meeting with Foreman.

ODDITIES OF THE YEAR

By BILL GALLO

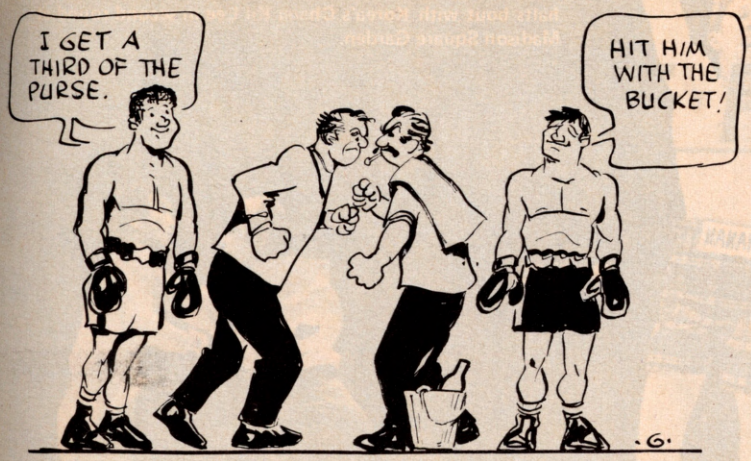


Here we see a Turkish wrestler named Yilmaz chasing a Bulgarian listed as Douraliev in the Olympic tournament at Munich. The Turk not only lost by disqualification but got a nosebleed and became infuriated. The Bulgarian left the ring and the Turk had to be restrained by team mates. A loss by a nose.

This shows the only bombing of a promoter of boxing during the year 1972. The victim was Don Elbaum, who operates in Cleveland. Don denied that it could have been a violent demonstration of revenge by an irate fan for some of the matches Elbaum had been responsible for during the year. The explosion happened during the night, only the car being hurt.

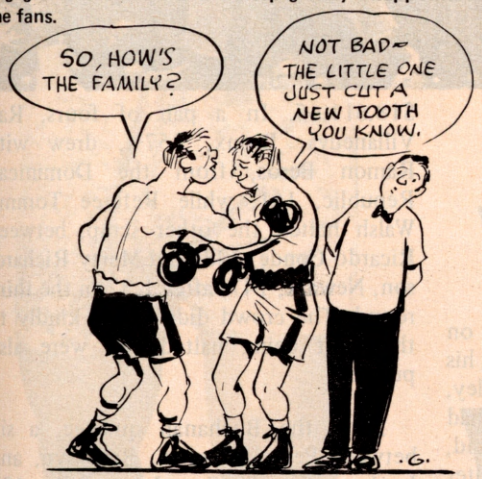
Ten times was Jackie Turpin, of England, knocked down by Antonio Torres in ten rounds. It was one of the year's upsets in world boxing. If Jackie tried to beat the record set by his famous uncle Randy, who hit the deck 16 times against Arthur Howard in 1957, he obviously was sadly disappointed. Strangely, Randy not only lasted 15 rounds but beat Howard for British light heavy laurels.

Recently the resourceful Madison Square Garden drum beater John Condon put on a Korean dance show as a feature of a fistic night. At the end, the customers weren't quite certain whether they had liked the terpsichorean items better than the fights. The Korean fanswingers raised a lot of wind.

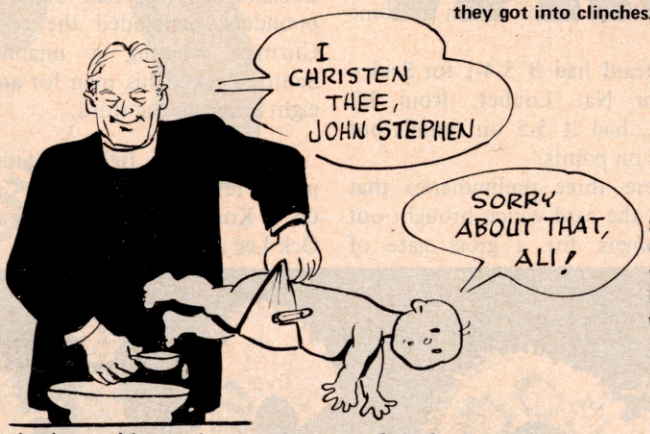


1972 produced a sequel to a hard fight with a threatened battle between the rival corner men right in the same ring. Mike Morton, pilot of Andy Kendall, and Mike Millsap, corner man for Amado Vasquez, squared off but thought better of it and quit. The near-fight came when Kendall and Vasquez continued punching after the bell had ended their 10-round engagement. Morton and Millsap greatly disappointed their fighters, if not the fans.

Long hair or short hair? This question has come up frequently in American sport. Tom Ostpau, long of hair, in the Lansing, Mich. Golden Gloves, refused a haircut. His copious locks became untied and the referee was forced to declare the hairy battler a loser by a TKO.

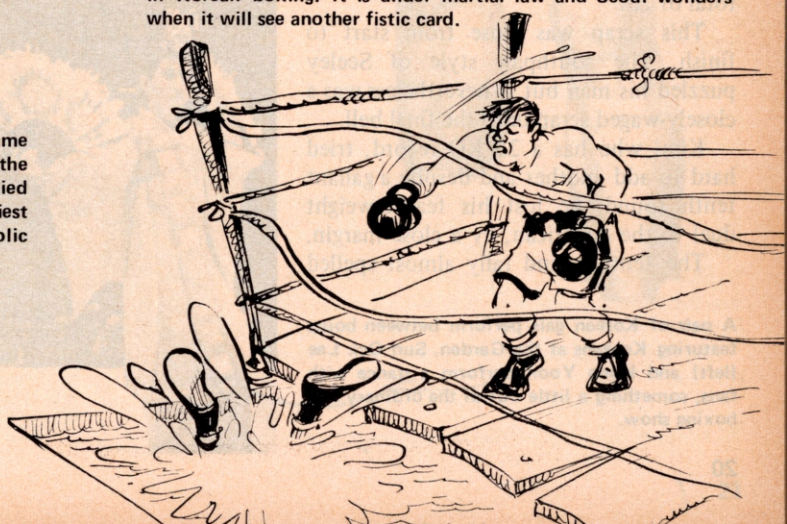


Las Vegas produced something new this past year. Referee Ferd Hernandez threw Clarence Geigger and Billy Hester out of the ring in round six. Hernandez said he no longer could take the lackadaisical attitude of the so-called battlers. He had wearied of their social chit-chat when they got into clinches.



In Crosby, England, near Liverpool, not so long ago a fight fan became a father and took the newcomer to church to be christened by the parish priest. When asked for the proposed name, the father replied "John Stephen Cassius Marcellus Muhammad Porter." The priest announced, "No go! I cannot give a Moslem name to a Catholic youngster."

Seoul, South Korea, presented an unusual card on which three Orient champions made their appearances. Two of the losers were from Japan, and this was not good for the general situation in Korean boxing. It is under martial law and Seoul wonders when it will see another fistic card.



It happened in an amateur show at Chulamar-on-Pacific, Guatamala. There is no professional boxing in that country. The grand finale brought Floater Simpson and Riverboat Carlos into the ring, which was laid over a swimming pool. Riverboat charged Floater into the pool and despite his moniker, Simpson almost drowned.

Ken Buchanan leaps for joy as referee Johnny LoBianco halts bout with Korea's Chang Kil Lee in second round at Madison Square Garden.

Buchanan and Seeley Win In Garden's 1972 Farewell

THE final 1972 show in Madison Square Garden saw Ken Buchanan, of Edinburgh, Scotland, former-lightweight king, come through with a 1:41 TKO win over Chang Kil Lee, Oriental junior welterweight champion from Seoul, Korea. Referee Johnny LoBianco stopped their fracas in the second round of a scheduled ten.

Lee's admirers presented to him a bouquet before the start. It was their omen for success but it turned out in reverse.

After the first round, a feeler out, Buchanan, who in his most recent Garden starts lost his crown to Roberto Duran and then halted former champ Carlos Ortiz, in desultory performances, came out with both fists flying for the second.

It took him a short time to unload a right to the jaw that staggered his man. He followed with a right, left and right that dropped the Korean to the canvas for the automatic eight. Lee was wobbly on arising and the referee brought hostilities to a stop.

Reports were circulated that Lee had a weight problems since arriving. Be that as it may, he was quickly put out of commission by Buchanan, who scaled 135½ to the loser's 136 pounds.

The other ten, which saw another Korean in action, turned out to be a 6-4-6 win on all three official cards for Walter Seeley, the Sayville, Long Island southpaw, 127, against the veteran Hyun Kim. The Oriental brought a record of 113 fights as against the New Yorker's total of 25.

This scrap was close from start to finish. The southpaw style of Seeley puzzled his man but it nevertheless was a closely-waged scrap until the final bell.

Kim, who has a 25 KO record, tried hard to add another and despite a gallant tenth round, he lost his featherweight duel to the American, by a close margin.

The tenth round rally almost spelled doom for Seeley as he suffered a cut on his left eye and the Korean was trying his best to bring his man down. Seeley, whose manager, Paddy Flood, said he had broken his left hand in the second round, managed to score with right jabs. Walter reportedly will be out of action for some time.

Our scorecard had it 5-4-1 for Seeley while Editor Nat Loubet, from his ringside seat, had it 5-5 on rounds but Seeley ahead on points.

There were three preliminaries that rounded out the card which brought out 3,071 customers for a gross gate of $18,611.65. In a pair of fours, Ray Villaneuva, Bronx, 157¾, drew with Ramon Beros, from the Dominican Republic, 161, while Referee Tommy Walsh halted the other scrap, between Ricardo Conde, 148, and Marty Richardson, Newark, 147, after 1:27 in the third round. The crowd didn't take kindly to the fight being halted. We were also puzzled.

After the Buchanan quickee, a six between Pedro Guzman, Brooklyn, and Luciano Santos, San Juan, P.R., 127 pounders, concluded the program with Guzman winning a unanimous win. Santos decked his man for an automatic eight count in the third.

In between fights, Garden Boxing public relations chief John Condon, put on a Korean dance show featuring Sun Ock Lee and Hong Yoon.

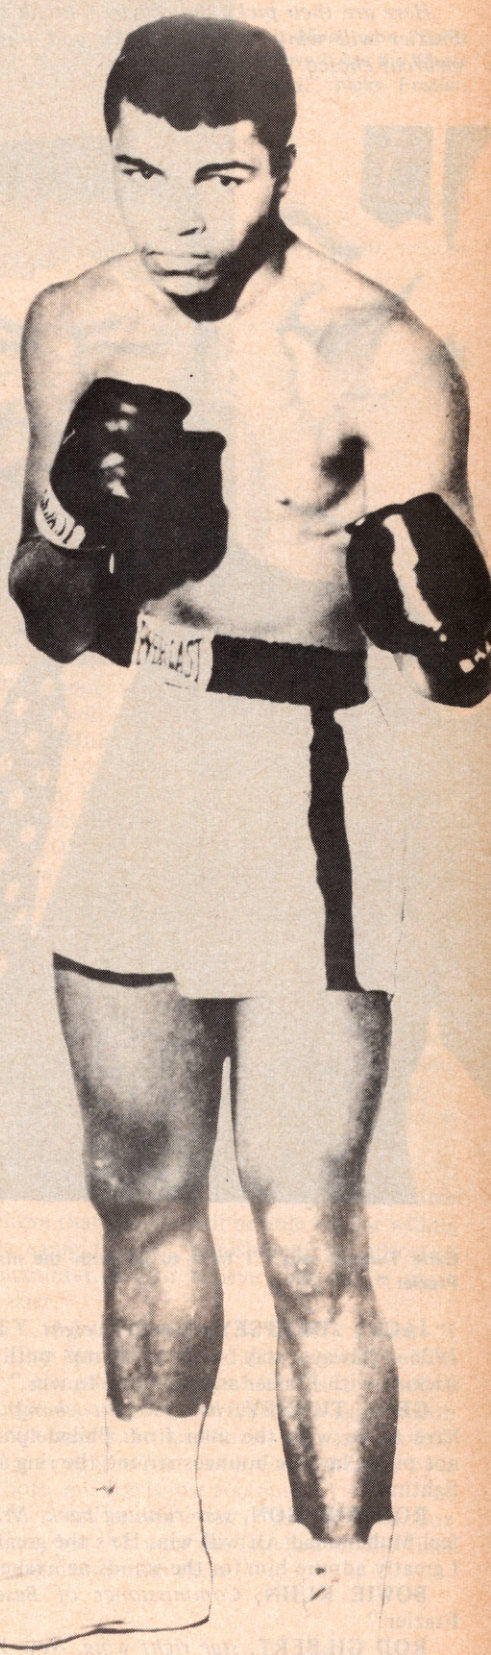
THE POLL

WHO WILL WIN?



WITH the world wide interest shown in the possible return match between heavyweight champion Joe Frazier and ex-champion Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay), The Ring conducted a poll of celebrities in many walks of life–boxing, other professional sports and the entertainment world–asking their opinions on the outcome, if and when the Frazier-Ali return match does take place.

Here are their picks and remarks. Incidentally, 75 predicted Frazier will win, 34 selected Ali and nine did not make a clearcut choice.

Gene Tunney says, "I have to go with the man from Philadelphia, Frazier."

JACK DEMPSEY, heavyweight champion 1919-1926–"Always stay with a champ until he is licked. I'm sticking with Frazier and pick him to win."

GENE TUNNEY, heavyweight champion 1926-1928–"I have to go with the man from Philadelphia, Frazier. I could not pick Clay. He bounces around the ring a lot and that is not fighting."

RON JOHNSON, star running back, New York Giants–"I feel Muhammad Ali will win. He's the greatest I've seen. Also, I greatly admire him for the stands he's taken in life."

BOWIE KUHN, Commissioner of Baseball–"I pick Joe Frazier."

ROD GILBERT, star right wing, New York Rangers–"Ali by a knockout in the seventh round."

Jack Dempsey is "sticking with Frazier and pick him to win."

THE RING STAFF

NAT LOUBET, Editor and Publisher–"Joe Frazier to win by a knockout. The fight will be a contrast of styles with Ali the better boxer and having an edge with his defensive finesse. Frazier will put the pressure on Ali the entire route. That will win it for him. He has the style to wear Ali down and I look for a KO in 14 rounds."

DAN DANIEL, Associate Editor–"Time was against Muhammad Ali against Joe Frazier in March, 1971, and will be an even more serious foe when they meet again. Frazier by a knockout."

GEORGE GIRSCH, Managing Editor–"No matter how many times they meet, Frazier will win. Clay cannot cope well with a man who applies as much pressure as Smokin' Joe. Frazier will stop Clay within 12 rounds."

JOHN ORT, Assistant Editor–"Frazier won big the first time and will knock out Clay the second time around."

SAM TAUB, conductor of Up And Down Old Broadway column; well-known boxing broadcaster for many years–"Frazier in five. He can take Clay out any time he wants to."

DON FRASER, California correspondent–"Frazier by a decision."

RON OLVER, British correspondent–"Last time it was close enough, which I thought was a tribute to Ali for a fine performance. At that time he was not really ready for Frazier. Ali is not the dancing master of old. He's much slower, although still too fast for any heavyweight except Frazier. Joe's different proposition, a present-day Marciano. He'll pressure Ali from first bell till last. Frazier to win, probably inside the schedule."

J. A. TREE, European correspondent–"Last time Frazier met Ali, I tipped Ali to win and was wrong. If and when they meet again, I will not hesitate to take Ali to outpoint the champion. I feel quite confident that his left jab will give him an edge on points."

HANK KAPLAN, Miami correspondent–"I feel that Joe Frazier is the top heavyweight of my generation and since he is currently at the peak of his career, physically and artistically, it stacks up that he will beat Muhammad Ali. Frazier has demonstrated more desire to win, both in his training habits and in ring performance, than any fighter I have known."

Milt Moss, who "Can't Believe I Ate the Whole Thing," picks Frazier.

MILT MOSS, TV comic who "Can't Believe I Ate The Whole Thing"–"Frazier will win. He proved the last time he'll always be too strong for Muhammad Ali."

BILL SHARMAN, coach, Los Angeles Lakers–"Muhammad Ali to win. He's quicker, taller and I believe he won't fool around as much this time."

SUGAR RAY ROBINSON, welterweight champion 1946-1951; five-time middleweight champion 1951-1959–"If I can train Ali, he'll win it all."

JIM FARLEY, former Postmaster General; former Chairman of N.Y. State Athletic Commission–"No pick but may the better man win."

HARRY MARKSON, President, Madison Square Garden Boxing–"It will follow the pattern of the first fight which was close. The outcome will depend on stamina in the closing rounds."

CURT GOWDY, NBC sportscaster–"Frazier. He did it before, he'll do it again."

BOBBY LEE, President, World Boxing Association–"I picked Frazier in the first fight, but I'm picking Ali this time because I do not believe that Frazier will be able and/or willing to stand up to the same type of punishment he absorbed during the first encounter. I also believe that Ali is more determined than Frazier."

ARTHUR DALEY, sports columnist, New York Times–"I picked Frazier over Clay the last time and don't see any reason to change. The Clay strength had always been his tremendous speed. It has faded. He was cut for the first time against Bob Foster and Frazier hits harder. I pick Frazier by a knockout."

BOB FOSTER, light heavyweight champion–"Frazier by a knockout. I fought both and Joe is just too much."

LEROY NEIMAN, noted sports artist–"Ali will win. Joe did win the first fight, but Ali won the last half of the final round and should continue on from there."

Sugar Ray Robinson says, "If I can train Ali, he'll win it all."

GEORGE PARNASSUS, promoter, Inglewood Forum—"Frazier is too strong and will once again win a 15-round decision."

TOM LANDRY, head coach, Dallas Cowboys—"I believe the return match will be a tossup between these two great fighters. I would really hate to have to pick a winner. If I am pressed to make a selection I would have to go with Frazier, I guess only because he is a little younger and he won the first fight."

DICK YOUNG, sports columnist, New York Daily News—"Joe Frazier will beat Muhammad Ali in 1973, in 1974, in 1975, in California, in New York, in Jamaica. Whenever and wherever, he is too much."

JACK SOLOMONS, longtime British promoter—"I have watched Ali very closely in his past few fights. He seems to get caught more easily than before. He's slower now, and Ali needs his legs. I have yet to convince myself exactly how much their first fight took out of Frazier, but I'll go for Frazier on points."

TEDDY BRENNER, matchmaker, Madison Square Garden—"I can't make an intelligent pick until after Frazier fights Foreman because of Frazier's two-year inactivity."

RED SMITH, sports columnist, New York Times—"Muhammad Ali, a considerate man, was worried about how mortified I would be after the first match, because I had insisted that Frazier would win. No doubt he'll worry about me next time, because I still insist that Frazier will win any time, and place they fight. Joe is too tough, takes a punch too well, hits too hard and exerts too much pressure for Ali. Joe may stop Ali the second time."

Ron Johnson feels "Muhammad Ali will win. He's the greatest I've seen."

Rod Gilbert predicts "Ali by a knockout in the seventh round."

BRAD PARK, star defenseman, New York Rangers—"Frazier by a decision. Very even fight all around."

KEN SMITH, Director, National Baseball Hall of Fame—"Frazier is superior now, though he needs a couple of fights under his belt."

JACKIE FIELDS, welterweight champion 1929-1930 and 1932-1933—"I pick Frazier again because of his style and his good condition. He'll be on top of Ali at all times, not giving Ali a chance to outbox him. I picked Frazier before and will again. He may KO Ali this time."

BILL GALLO, sports cartoonist, New York Daily News; President, Boxing Writers Association—"After the last fight I can't see that Ali could ever beat Frazier. If they fought 10 times Frazier would win 10 times. In another two years Ali may be in better shape. He can't stand Frazier's pressure. Everything equal I pick Frazier by a knockout."

LARRY COSTELLO, coach, Milwaukee Bucks—"Muhammad to win. My reasons are: 1—To redeem himself from his previous defeat. 2—Pride. 3—Perhaps he is better trained because of several recent fights where Frazier has been idle."

DON DUNPHY, longtime boxing broadcaster—"I think I'll have to pass picking a winner. This one is tougher than their last fight. I think it will be more psychological. How will Joe react remembering the physical and emotional drain after the last fight? How will Ali react remembering how he was battered in the 11th and floored in the 15th? The man who can overcome the psychological will win."

ROCKY AOKI, president, Benihana of Tokyo restaurant

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says, "I pick Joe Frazier."

chain; promoter of Ali-Mac Foster bout in Tokyo—"Ali will win. I believe the long layoff has hurt Frazier. Ali has kept sharp by fighting often."

PAUL BERLENBACH, light heavyweight champion 1925-1926—"I pick Clay to win as he'll jab and run like the devil but if Frazier corners him, Joe will knock him out."

JIMMY BRESLIN, noted writer and commentator—"I thought the first fight was not very good and the second only can be worse. Muhammad is the better athlete and if the fight was held in early 1972 he would have won. But to project into 1973 is impossible. I can, however, guarantee an overblown, sad, boring, strange fight."

AILEEN EATON, promoter, Olympic Boxing Club, Los Angeles—"It's my opinion that Muhammad Ali will get the nod over Frazier in 15 rounds if he doesn't clown around. He should have won the last one!"

DAVE ANDERSON, sports columnist, New York Times—"Joe Frazier will knock out Muhammad Ali within 10 rounds if their rematch materializes. I think Frazier is too strong and too intense for Ali; also Frazier will be able to take Ali's best punches, whereas Ali will crumble eventually under Frazier's assault."

LOU SALICA, bantamweight champion, 1940-1942—"In my opinion, Frazier will knock out Clay in eight or nine rounds. Frazier reminds me of Henry Armstrong. He doesn't give you a chance to breathe."

ARCHIE MANNING, quarterback, New Orleans Saints—"Joe Frazier to win. I don't feel Muhammad Ali can knock Joe out. And if the fight goes the distance, Joe should win. Muhammad may have been the greatest fighter ever, but he's never regained that form."

CHARLEY ROSE, longtime boxing figure and manager; World War I hero—"Frazier, he's rough and tough. He'll hit Clay with that left hook. His hands are the fastest of any heavyweight I've ever seen."

WILLARD MULLIN, famed sports cartoonist—"You must remember I had a parlay going on Napoleon at Waterloo and Custer at Little Big Horn. Even so, I like Cassius Clay—bigger, faster and now not ring-rusty as in their last meeting. Both are proud and dedicated men but I feel with Clay it is more than dedication—it is a crusade!!"

IKE GELLIS, sports editor, New York Post—"I think if Ali trains for this fight, this time, he should beat Frazier."

Bill Sharman selects "Muhammad Ali to win. He's quicker, taller and I believe he won't fool around as much this time."

LARRY MATHEWS, Broadway hairstylist—"I pick Frazier by a knockout in eight rounds. Ali will look flat and leave his fight in his mouth."

PADDY DeMARCO, lightweight champion 1954—"I pick Joe Frazier to win. Frazier is a tremendous infighter. Ali can't infight at all. Frazier has a good chance of scoring a knockout. Frazier's punches carry more authority than Ali's."

DESMOND HACKETT, veteran boxing writer, London Daily Express—"I forecast a win for Clay if these two ever meet again. When Clay fought Frazier in New York, he was overweight and underrated the punching power of Frazier. I select Clay because Frazier took a brutal thrashing and in my opinion should not be subjected once again to this manner of punishment. I take Clay to win in the 10th round because of the superior punching power he will have over Frazier."

VIC HADFIELD, star left wing, New York Rangers—"Ali by TKO in the 11th round."

CORPORAL IZZY SCHWARTZ, flyweight champion 1927-1929—"I believe Joe Frazier will defeat Muhammad Ali. Ali does not like to get hit and under fire he somehow does not care to mix. I think Frazier will KO Ali."

ROY RUBIN, coach Philadelphia 76ers—"The guy that is standing at the end of the fight will be the winner. These are two supers who I won't pick apart."

RON LYLE, top-rated heavyweight contender—"A tossup but the edge is to Frazier. His strength and punch are too much."

JACK FRIED, boxing writer, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin—"As was the case in their first fight, I expect that Frazier's drive, hitting power, strength and durability will deny Ali his mobility and overcome his superior boxing, assuming, of course, that their respective ages and lack of testing experience over the past two years do not alter the situation."

BEN JEBY, middleweight champion, 1932-1933—"I like Frazier. He is more aggressive, stronger and has never lost."

HEDGEMON LEWIS, recognized by N.Y. State as welterweight champion—"Frazier has the punch and chin."

DICK SCHAAP, NBC sportscaster and Editor, Sport Magazine—"I pick Ali purely on emotion. I'd like to see him win because he's the better entertainer—and he's in the entertainment business."

CLIFF SUTTER, former Davis Cup tennis star, now marketing and advertising director for Bancroft Sporting Goods—"I pick Frazier by a KO."

CHARLIE PHIL ROSENBERG, bantamweight champion 1925-1927—"I have to favor Muhammad Ali. As a boxer with a good left hand and a beautiful jab, I think he could overcome Frazier's roughness."

JACK HAND, NFL Films; longtime Associated Press sportswriter—"I think Frazier will beat Ali any time they meet and as often as they meet. I consider Frazier a much better puncher than Ali, who has lost his greatest asset—his speed. I expect Frazier again to apply the pressure all the way. His only danger point will be the early rounds as he always has been a slow starter. Once he takes command it will just be a question of how much punishment Ali wants to take."

RUBY GOLDSTEIN, famed boxer and referee; President, VBA Ring #8, N.Y.—"Frazier, after one tuneup fight, will win again."

JERSEY JONES, noted boxing figure and manager; retired Ring staffer—"I'm stringing along with Clay to win the encore. Frazier is the stronger and more durable but he can be hit and hurt. Clay has the speed and the boxing skill to keep him away, and his sharpshooting should be the payoff."

LOU NOVA, former heavyweight contender—"I like Frazier by a KO in the 13th round."

GLEN SATHER, left wing, New York Rangers—"Frazier by a KO in round 12. Can either of them skate?"

DUKE STEFANO, Assistant Matchmaker, Madison Square Garden—"I have to wait until after the Frazier-Foreman fight before picking a winner."

MIKE BARRETT, British promoter—"Ali, although slower, is still a fabulous boxer and a fabulous character. He is still doing more for boxing than any other fighter. Yet I think that Frazier is the one and only fighter in the world today who has both the style and the power to beat him. So I'll forecast a Frazier victory."

MURRAY GOODMAN, veteran sports publicist—"Frazier by a decision."

PETEY SARRON, featherweight champion, 1936-1937—"The way I see it Frazier is gonna win. He has the aggressiveness and punching power to score a knockout. I didn't see any great punching power when Ali fought Liston in either fight. Ali didn't show me any power. Frazier has the moves."

JACK BARRETT, former Madison Square Garden matchmaker and boxing manager—"Frazier. He puts on too much pressure."

J. RUSSELL PELTZ, Philadelphia boxing promoter—"Joe Frazier will win again because Muhammad Ali no longer has the speed afoot to cope with Frazier's pressure and he certainly cannot stand toe-to-toe with Frazier and outpunch him."

TED PATTERSON, sports director, WBAL-radio, Baltimore, Md.—"Clay, because he seems to have regained a good many of his old skills."

DEWEY FRAGETTA, boxing entrepreneur—"Frazier all the way. Good champion. Too much activity has affected Clay."

MICKEY DAVIES, matchmaker, Inglewood Forum—'Ali has been busy, while Frazier hasn't. This could be the difference. I pick Ali."

MUSH McGEE, Madison Square Garden boxing publicity aide—"Frazier by a KO. He's a big Henry Armstrong."

HARRY CARPENTER, British boxing commentator—"Ali is so much slower now and can be cut as we saw in his last fight. I think Frazier will repeat his victory, this time inside the distance."

TOM HEENEY, former contender who fought Tunney for heavyweight title in 1928—"I like Frazier to beat Ali. I like Frazier's tear-in style of fighting. He wades in and there's no stopping him, I can't see how Ali can be improving."

MEYER CHINSKY, well-known artist—"Frazier will win again. He's too much the fighter for Clay."

ANGELO DUNDEE, trainer of Ali since his second pro engagement—"Ali will win. The regaining of the title is the next plateau for Ali. There is a pattern he is following and he is now shooting for this achievement. When he sets his mind to something there is no deterring him. He feels he is the people's champion and wants the crown returned. I feel strongly that he has learned his lesson from the first fight with Frazier and he knows what he did wrong. Ali will not make the same mistakes twice."

ARMANDO MUNIZ, Los Angeles welterweight contender—"I like Clay. He won't make mistakes like the last time."

JIMMY O'CONNOR—New York boxing manager—"Frazier in a hard fight."

DON CHARGIN, matchmaker, Olympic Boxing Club, Los Angeles—"Frazier by a knockout. He's too strong and aggressive for Ali."

DAN BUCCERONI, former light heavyweight contender—"I pick Frazier to win again. Joe's constant pressure will wear Ali down. Time is catching up to Muhammad."

BOB GOODMAN, sports publicist—"Ali by a decision."

MAX KASE, former New York Journal-American sports editor; founder of B'nai B'rith Sports Lodge—"I like Frazier. I don't think Ali is the fighter he was. Frazier will wear him down."

GRAHAM HOUSTON, Editor, Boxing News, London, Eng.—"It figures to be another punishing fight for Joe. But, as I see it, Ali has slowed down and is being hit much more these days. His stamina looks suspect. Frazier's pressure-fighting and relentless left-hooking should be too much for Ali to handle. I think Frazier will get to him in 10 or 12 rounds."

ALEX KOSKOWITZ, former pilot of Doug Jones, who lost a questionable nod to Clay in 1963—"Frazier will knock him out if he wants to."

MANNIE SEAMON, famed trainer of Joe Louis, Benny Leonard and others—"I'm not picking anybody at the present time, but Clay will look better if they fight again."

THE GREAT DEBATE

"I'll Knock Him Out This Time."
–FRAZIER

"I Will Annihilate Him."

"HE'S JUST A PHONY."

By JOE FRAZIER

THERE'S an awful lot of people waiting to see Clay and me in the ring again. The public should get what it wants. I'm not dodging him, like he's been saying. There's nobody in the world that wants this fight more than me. Let's get the fight on! The fans are sick of delay.

I want him bad. He's just a phony, and people that accept his words are fooled, too. All he has to do is to put his name on the paper. I've been ready.

I hear he thinks that I'm really a good guy. I hope he keeps thinking that. You let him keep fooling himself. He'll see what a good guy I am when I get him in that four square. I'll knock him out.

Bob Foster called me the other day and told me that I would knock him out this time. That's just the way I see it.

Clay is going to see a different me. Not that there's anything wrong with the old me, but I feel myself so much improved over the past two years. Maybe it's the experience, maybe added confidence. I don't know. But I feel this great sense of freedom. I can really feel it. There's no strain or pressure.

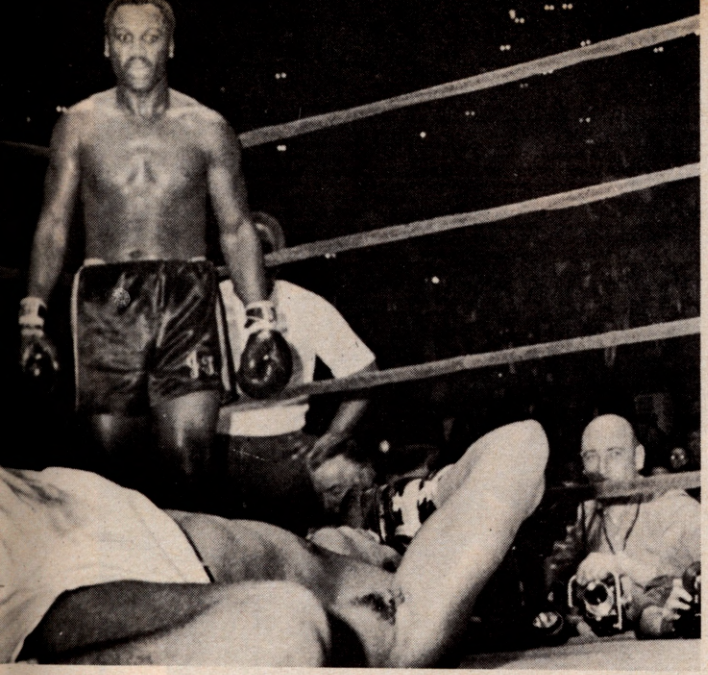
I don't get hit as much as before, and everything is coming real easy and natural. I'm also punching better and getting things off without thinking about them. Even the work is different. I don't get tired anymore, even on the road. There are just a lot of little things that I'm doing that make me feel real good.

Some people have asked me if I hit my peak and I can't answer them because I don't know where it would be. I haven't been there before. All I know is that I'm getting better.

In our first fight I gave him too much time. There were a couple of things that I won't do again, like dropping my hands. Not that he hurt me when I did that, but that's his thing, not mine. I just like to go out there and work.

Joe Frazier punches the speed bag during a gym workout.

The champ ponders a question during a news conference.



(Above) Frazier watches the movements of Jimmy Ellis after flooring him in the fourth round of their 1970 contest. Joe received full recognition as titleholder after that victory. (Right) Frazier holds Edward J. Neil Award presented by Boxing Writers Association in April, 1972. That's Jack Dempsey, of course, with Joe.

I've heard all kinds of talk about me being a sick man. There's been reports that I'm half blind, that my heart is not pumping right, that I have a blood problem, my brain is bad, I have kidney trouble. But every time I face somebody in the ring, it ends up the same—I keep knocking people out. So I don't feel I'm doing too bad for a sick man. Clay will find out how sick I am. Ever since I won the Olympics they been trying to bury me, but I love fighting.

The first fight was tough and I was real tired at the end. But no more than him. If the fight had to go another round, somehow I would have made it, I don't know if I could say the same for him. He says he was clowning in our first fight and that's why the judges took all those rounds and gave them to me, I know better. I'm not being conned by any of his bull-jive. I figure the judges saw the fight pretty good but I don't get a chance to see myself while I'm in there like some, I'm too busy workin. I'm ready for him right now. I've never felt better physically and I'm at ease mentally. He can do all the talking, just like he's been doing right along. He's been trying to convince himself and anyone else who will listen to his guff, that he should have really won the fight. With what?

Who's he been fighting? Guys that I already finished! Jerry Quarry, Jimmy Ellis, George Chuvalo, Buster Mathis and some others that aren't even rated. I just try and do my job the best I know how, but at least I'm not trying to pull the public's leg.

The guys around were guys I had beaten before. What was I going to do, start fighting all these guys the second time around? I fought Terry Daniels and Ron Stander. On schedule is George Foreman.

I don't have to keep fighting. I'm set for the rest of my life with a good contract, money in the bank and sound investments. Why should I think about quitting, I'm young and strong and I like what I'm doing. I have no intentions of quitting, not yet. I just like to lay it on the line, not like him, trying to fool people. He's the one who made the bed hard, so he can lay in it. Fighting is fighting. Where does all the politics come in? He says things that have nothing to do with fighting and as far as I'm concerned, he can say or do anything he likes. I try to tell it like it is and try to do it like it should be done. I try to give the public what they want to see—an all-out effort every time out.

Now, about money. After all, I am a pro. But money is money and talk about millions sometimes shakes the fans up somewhat.

I know what the fight will draw and I want to get paid for my share. But there has been a lot of twaddle about demands. If the promoter is ready with Clay's signature he will find mine ready for him.

Now, about the fight. I have, on my side, a man called Yank Durham. He is the smartest guy in world boxing. He is a great trainer, a great tactician, a priceless guy to have in your corner.

If I had done everything Durham wanted me to do in the New York fight I would have stopped Clay. But I let some of Yank's advice go over my head.

I thought I had Clay in the 15th round when I had him on the floor. Lucky guy. He got up. Let me deck him again and he won't pick himself off that canvas.

My style of fighting is too much for him. I know he can't hurt me. I studied pictures of his fight with Bob Foster. He had 41 pounds on Bob. Imagine that 41 pounds.

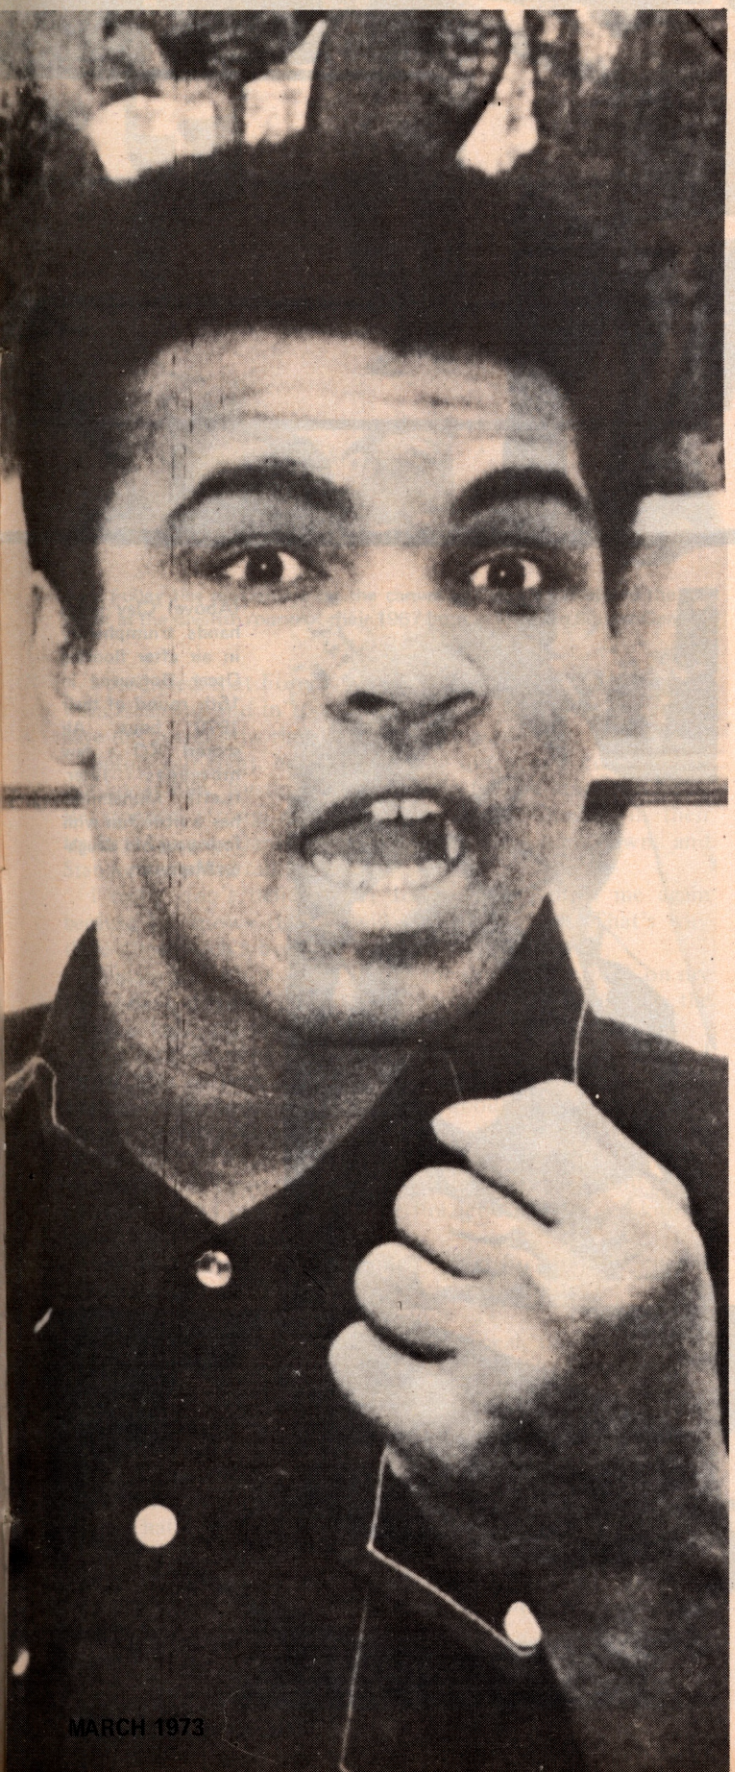
"I'M BETTER NOW AND WILL PROVE IT"



By MUHAMMAD ALI
(AS TOLD TO BOB GOODMAN)

WHEN I meet Joe Frazier, I will annihilate him. It will be a total mismatch. I'm going to do to him what everybody figured I should have done the first time.

I'm not selling him short. Joe Frazier is a good fighter as far as his style is concerned. He's not a fast scientific boxer, but Joe is strong and can take a lot of whippin', so much so, he makes his opponents tire from beating him. He will not tire me.

He has a hard left hook and it's his best punch. There's no right cross, no fast scientific jab, just the constant plodding attack. He has a good body attack, but I don't really know how good, I didn't take a body beating because of my style. The average slow heavyweight can get worn to the ground fighting Joe Frazier if time permits.

Joe was good when I fought him in New York. But the next time I meet him, he will not have what he had then. He took a terrible beating for 15 rounds. He spent 30 days in the hospital under intensive care. Everybody, regardless of race, creed or color, knows that I really beat Joe Frazier.

I've studied films of the fight taken by Bill Greaves, blow by blow, taking the fight just as it happened. Men of all races in prisons throughout the country have seen the same films and 85% of them know I should have got the decision.

I know I took about nine rounds, played for four, and the 11th round he really got the best of me, shook me up. He knocked me down in the 15th, so I guess you'd say that he had that round too, even though I came on. That's six rounds tops for him, maybe even stretch it with the playing to seven. I still won the fight.

One of the judges, you might say he was biased, had me winning only four rounds with Frazier taking 11, which was just impossible. The fight being so big and so great, for one judge to do that sort of thing is bad for such a topnotch world event.

Joe's been catching all kinds of hell, especially since he fought me. They call him the black white hope. All the whites in the theatres wanted to see Joe win. I'm not blaming Joe, he just tries to do his job. But they were so glad to see Joe Frazier beat the man who fought the draft, the man who made the black stand.

I was out almost four years and even during those years of inactivity, did one of the greatest jobs in history to try and help keep the game alive.

Since I came back in the end of 1970, I've had 13 fights—Frazier has had five in the same period. And look who he fought since my fight—Terry Daniels and Ron Stander, not counting George Foreman.

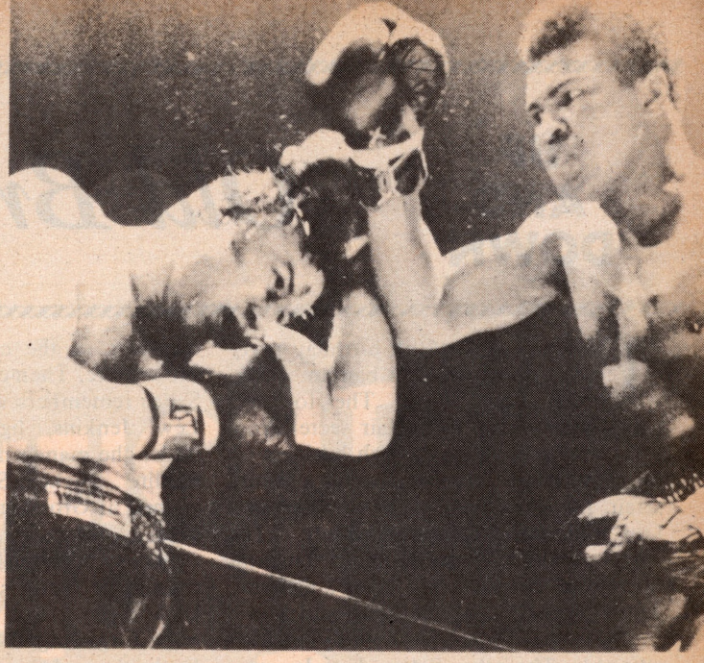
Clay lands a long left to the head of Jurgen Blin during their meeting in Zurich, Switzerland in 1971. Ali stopped his man in the seventh round.

Zora Folley lies motionless on the canvas as Cassius is declared the KO victor in the seventh round of their 1967 bout at Madison Square Garden.



Clay trades punches with George Chuvalo during their return match at Vancouver, B.C. last May. Cassius won a 12-round nod.

I predicted that Foreman would win the fight if Joe Frazier wasn't careful and in top shape, because Joe doesn't seem to have the power now that he had before we fought.

Before our fight, he was knocking out people cold. People like James Ellis, Buster Mathis, Bob Foster and Manuel Ramos. He stopped strong men like Quarry and Chuvalo in their tracks. Against Daniels, he couldn't keep him down, and Stander never did fall.

I really don't believe that Joe wants to meet me again because he knows that it will be his last fight. That's why there's been such a hold up.

Muhammad Ali is back! I have the shuffle, I'm back on my toes. I danced with Chuvalo and Quarry. My timing is back, the rythm is back, my legs are back and the speed is back.

The long years of inactivity were costly. I lost the timing, I forgot how to pace myself—that's why I got tired early with Frazier. I was thinking that first time about being able to move for 15 rounds. Now I don't have to think about it, it's all natural.

I really can't say if I could have gone another round in our last fight, and I can't answer for Frazier either. Now I know I can dance and box for 15 rounds.

Joe Frazier might be boxing's official champion but he can't talk like me. He doesn't have the personality, he can't fill the seats and can't predict any rounds.

I have double Joe Frazier's crowd appeal, am worth double at the gate, double at the theatres. I'm the champion when it comes to putting them in the arenas and theatres so he can stop talking about being the champion. I made over a million dollars last year, averaging better than $250,000 per fight.

I rescued boxing when I beat Liston. Floyd Patterson, whom I respect a lot, defended his title only eight times in six years. That's not even twice a year.

I defended my title nine times in less than three years against all top contenders. I would have been even more active and defended the title many more times if they didn't keep me from boxing.

THEY tossed a 60th birthday party for former world's bantam champion Lou Salica. . .The toughest part was keeping the affair secret from Lou, who is now in the fish business on the waterfront. . .It was strictly a family affair, the only outsiders being Helen and Lou Chippim and Yours Truly. . .The party was held at the home of daughter Janet and her husband, Joseph Parente, who have two children, Mark and Steve.

There was Lou's son, Johnny, and his wife, Ida. The other Salica, Lou Jr., who looks like a hockey prospect, was on hand with Mary Jean Agosta. There were numerous other family members.

Audrey Jones, wife of Jersey Jones, long time assistant editor of the Ring Magazine, was in the limelight recently. Joe McGuigan, founder and president of the newly organized Ring #68, Tri-County, comprising Delaware, Chester and Montgomery, was chairman when Joe Shannon was elected president, a job vacated after three years by our own Jersey Jones. . .Al Couture is the new 1st Vice President, Jimmie Clinch second V.P., and the 3rd V.P. spot resulting in a tie, with Bobby Tracy, of Buffalo's Ring #44 withdrawing in favor of Eddie Swider, of Syracuse #56. Grossinger's, in the Catskills, became famous years ago by reason of its wonderful hostess, Jennie Grossinger. Many of our champions who trained for titular combat, were saddened by the passing of that wonderful lady. Not only did boxing's champions and near-champions train there but also many other champions in different fields. . .For years Irving Jaffe, one time Olympic skating champion, has been associated with the resort.

He was a pro with Red Holzman and Chuck Connors, who later became a pro baseball player with the Brooklyn Dodgers and now known as a famous performer on the screen. HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONS OFF GUARD

THERE have been a total of 24 men who have held the heavyweight title since the days of John L. Sullivan. They have been, perhaps more than any other individual in any sport, lionized, publicized and photographed.

Action photos galore have been seen by millions these 90 years since the Great John L. ascended the pugilistic throne. There have been many others snapped of the heavyweight kings outside the ring ropes. No publication, of course, could print all of them. In this special section, however, The Ring presents a representative selection of the best.

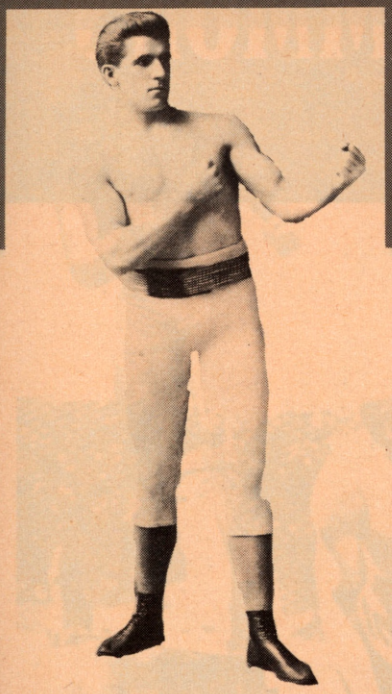
Sullivan, as looked in later years, paunchier and polka-dotted.

JIM CORBETT 1892-1897

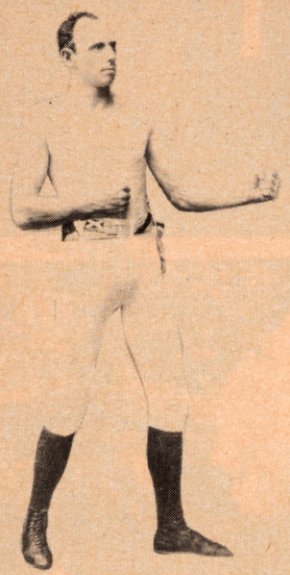


Gentleman Jim tends to his flowers in the garden of his home in the Bayside section of the borough of Queens, New York City.

Jim poses with film star Douglas Fairbanks Sr., circa 1918.

Corbett celebrates his 60th birthday on Sept. 2, 1926, reading congratulatory messages.

BOB FITZSIMMONS 1897-1899



Bob Fitzsimmons displays the strength of his arms and shoulders doing some blacksmith chores.

(Left) A rare photo of Ruby Robert, dressed in theatrical garb.

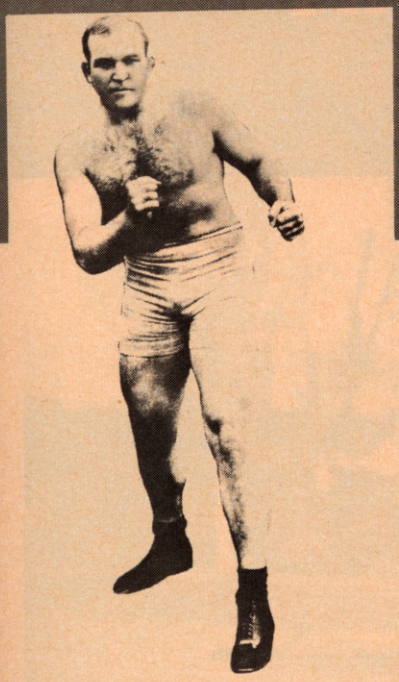
JIM JEFFRIES 1899-1905

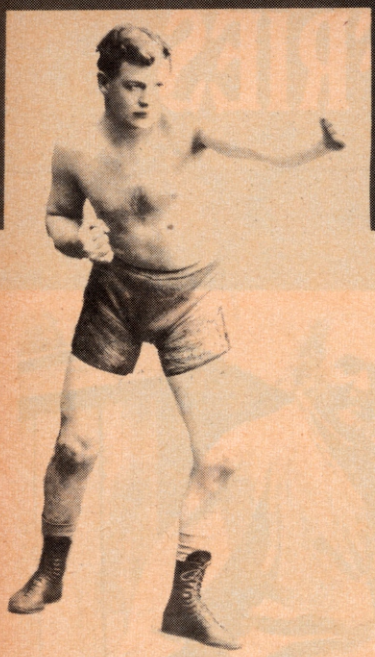


Jeffries (right) and Bob Fitzsimmons make like farmers in the days after they put aside their ring togs.

Jeffries gives his old ring rival, Tom Sharkey, a ride on the handlebars of his bike in Portland, Ore. in 1929, over the same route that Sharkey delivered newspapers when he was a boy. Jeff beat Sharkey in 25 rounds in 1899.

This 1936 photo of Jeff and his wife, the former Frieda Mayer, was taken at their Burbank, Calif. home. They married in 1904 in New York while Jim was on a theatrical tour.

MARVIN HART 1905-1906



Marvin Hart skips rope during a training session.

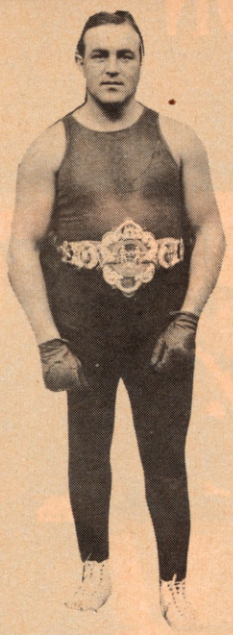
TOMMY BURNS 1906-1908

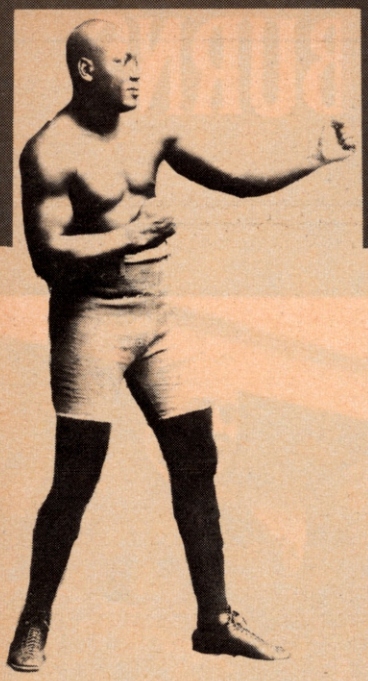


In the 1920s, many years after being heavyweight king, Tommy Burns brought over a new fistic sensation from Belgium, Jack Humbeck. Needless to say, Humbeck did not become a household name.

(Left) Elegant is the word for the dashing Burns here in the fine fashion of the day.

Here's a much older Burns, whose real name was Noah Brusso.

JACK JOHNSON 1908-1915



Jack Johnson tries to embark on a new career in 1930, leading a red hot jazz band.

(Left) Johnson in the costume of an Ethiopian general, the role he portrayed in a performance of "Aida" by the Hippodrome Opera Company in New York in 1936.

(Right) Jack holds umbrella for his second wife, Etta, during travels in Europe. Married to Johnson in 1911, Etta committed suicide in 1912.

(Left) Long after their 1915 battle in which Willard took the title from Jack Johnson at Havana in 26 rounds, the pair happily pose in Los Angeles.

Willard as he looked in 1963 at the age of 81. Big Jess died in 1968.

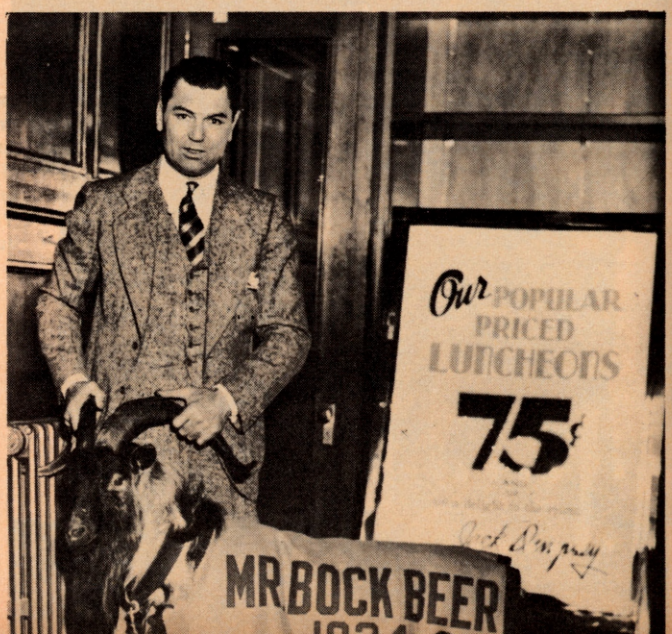
Jack Dempsey tries his hand at the wheel of a magnificent new touring car.

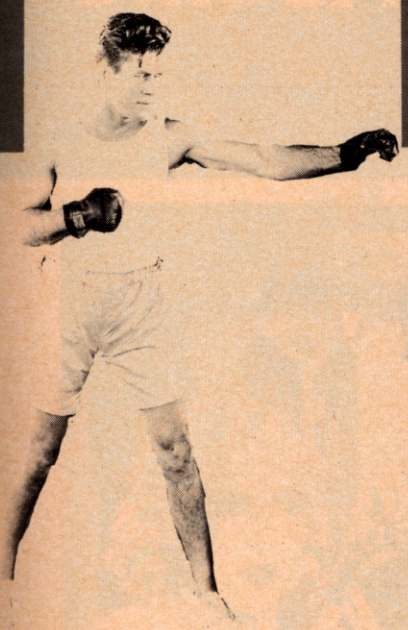
The Manassa Mauler, a newly crowned champion in 1919, enjoys some corn on the cob.

Dempsey shows Rudolph Valentino, the famed Hollywood matinee idol, a few things about boxing on a visit to the star's studio in 1925.

Jack poses with Mr. Bock Beer of 1934-35 after toasting the opening of the festive season.



GENE TUNNEY 1926-1928



Newly-crowned heavyweight king Gene Tunney reviews Marine honor guard with New York Mayor Jimmy Walker during ceremonies honoring him for his feat of beating Dempsey in 1926.

Lt. Commander Tunney, with his aide, Lt. William Leckie, during air tour for Navy's physical development program during World War II, of which Tunney was in charge.

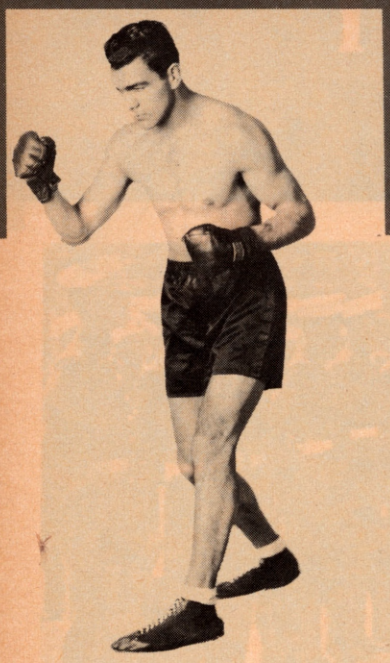
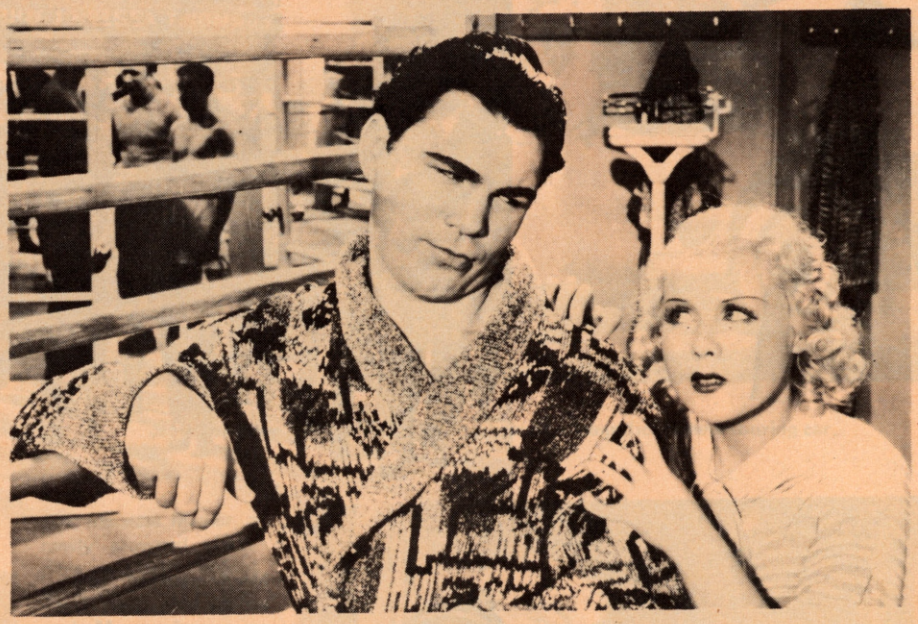
MAX SCHMELING 1930-1932





Max Schmeling and his movie star wife, Anny Ondra, in the pre-World War II German film "Knockout."

Schmeling, now a big Coca-Cola distributor, among other things in Germany, promotes good will for his product, as shown in this photo taken in Hamburg.

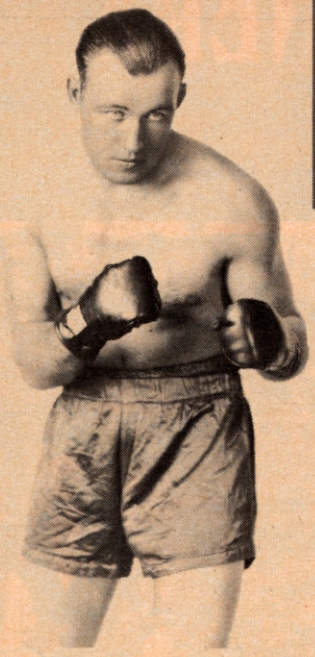
JACK SHARKEY 1932-1933

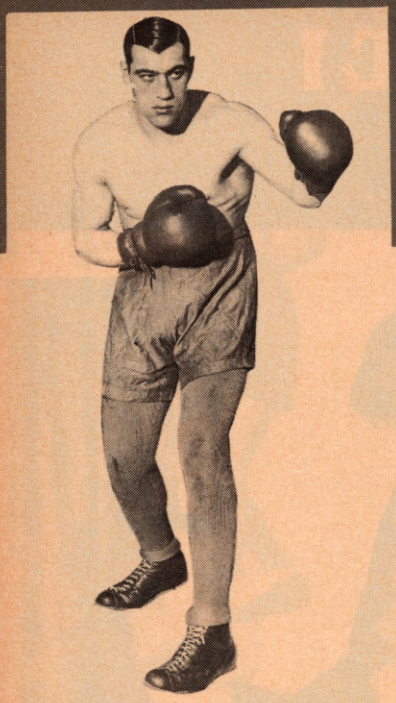


Sharkey chats with Hollywood movie columnist Louella Parsons, who died recently, in 1931. They discussed an offer made to Jack to appear in a motion picture.

Benny Leonard, former lightweight king, says "That's the ticket" as Sharkey shows him what he'll do to Carnera in June, 1933. But, alas and alack, Primo stopped Jack in six rounds.

This 1970 photo shows Sharkey relaxing with a pipe and wears a fishing hat ringed with flies, which Jack enjoys making. He's a top fisherman.

PRIMO CARNERA 1933-1934



Primo Carnera has a little sandlot baseball fun during his palmy days.

(Left) Carnera shakes hands with Charlie Chaplin as he visits the famed comedian on the set of "City Lights" in May, 1930. (Above) In a wave of enthusiasm after becoming the new heavyweight king in 1933, Primo celebrates by entertaining diners in a New York restaurant with an accordion solo.

MAX BAER 1934-1935

Jimmy Braddock (left) and manager Joe Gould (center) undergo rifle calisthenics at Fort Slocum, N.Y. during World War II. Braddock and Gould received First Lieutenants commissions.

JOE LOUIS 1937-1949

Taking time off from training for his return match with Arturo Godoy in 1940, Joe hits high C while accompanying himself on the piano.

Joe's first words on radio occurred during an interview with Nat Fleischer at the WNEW, New York, microphone. Others are Tony Canzoneri, Jack Blackburn, Joe's trainer, and the immortal Sam Langford.

EZZARD CHARLES 1950-1951

Ol' Ez takes time out to play with some young fans.

JERSEY JOE WALCOTT 1951-1952

Guests of MC Garry Moore on the "I've Got A Secret" TV program were Phil Johnson, Walcott and Harold Johnson, Phil's son. Phil's secret was "I fought Jersey Joe in 1936." Harold's was, "I fought Jersey Joe in 1950." Walcott scored three-round TKOs over both father and son. Harold, of course, was a light heavyweight champion.

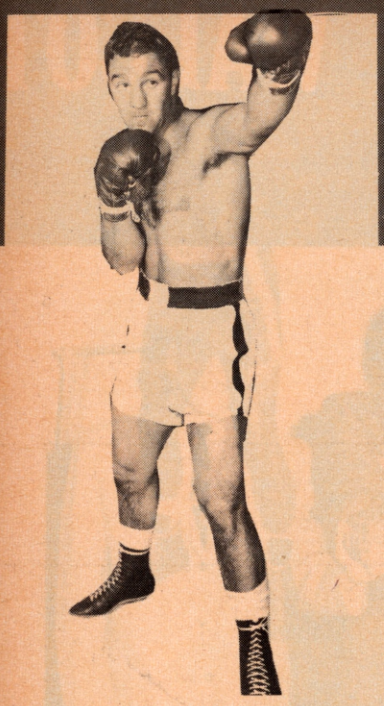
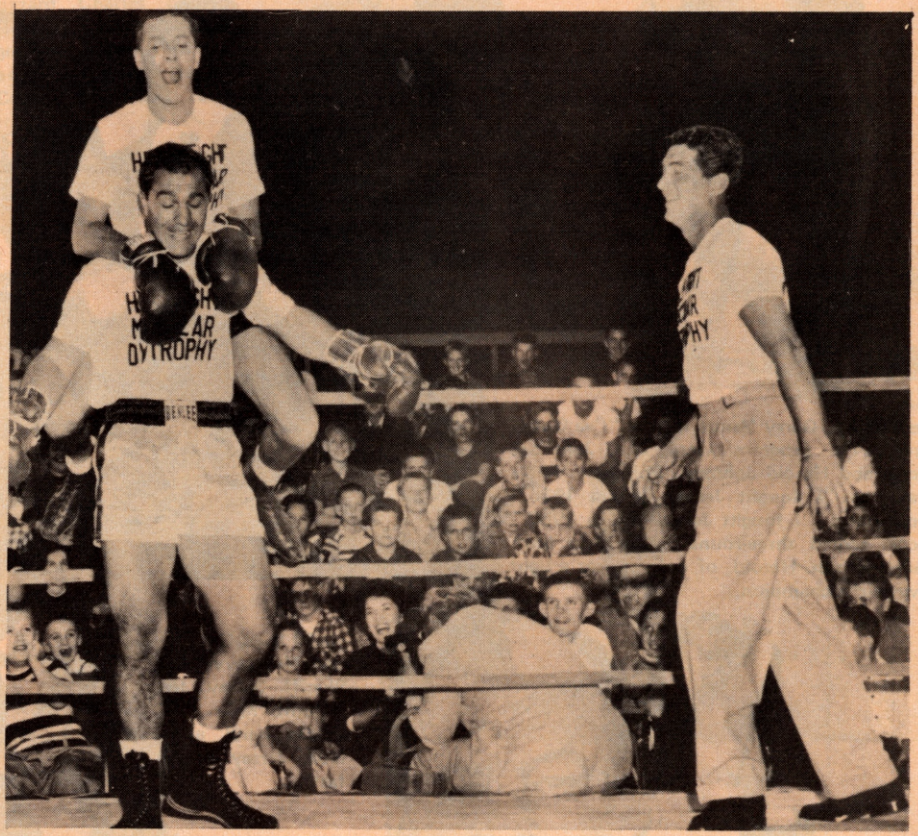
(Right) Walcott spars with 6-10 Mike Lane during the filming of "The Harder They Fall" back in 1955.

ROCKY MARCIANO 1952-1956





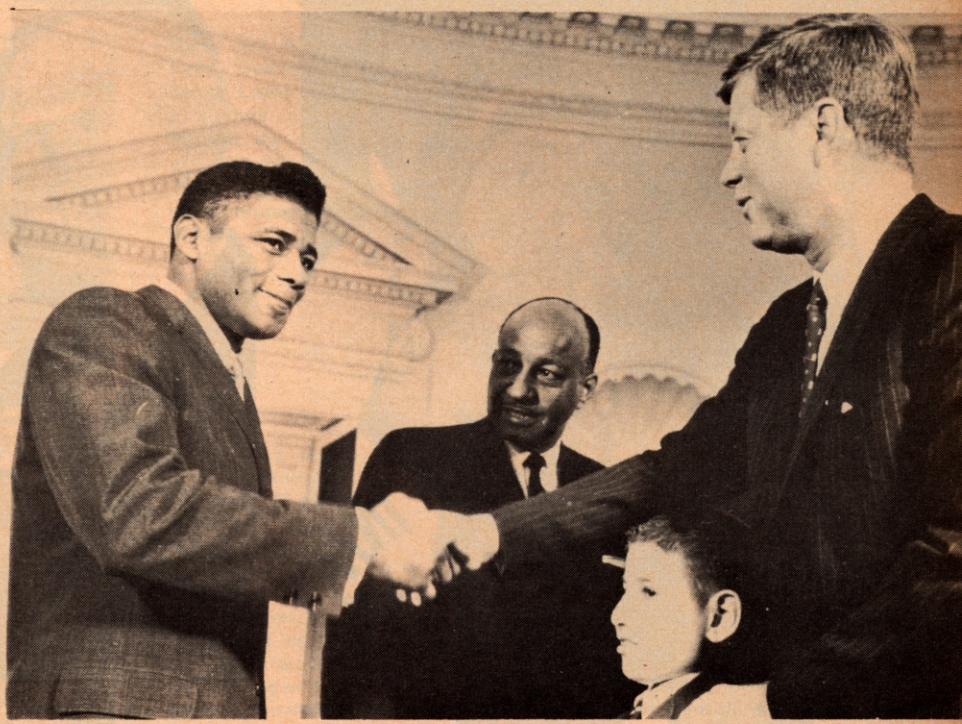
A bit of horseplay during a "bout" between Marciano and Jerry Lewis. Dean Martin is the referee of the "contest" which took place at Paramount studios in Hollywood for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

(Left) Rocky is fed a piece of cake by Zsa Zsa Gabor at her birthday party held at the Stork Club in 1961. (Right) Marciano, who once aspired to be a major league catcher, takes batting practice with the Chicago police department team not long after he retired from the ring.

FLOYD PATTERSON 1956-1959; 1960-1962

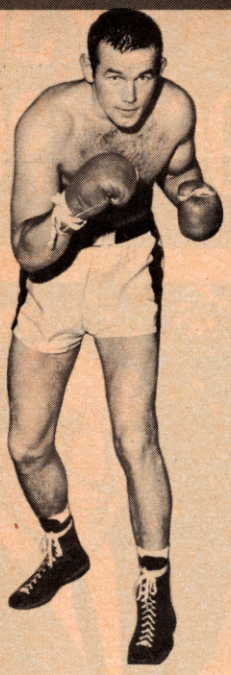
Floyd Patterson demonstrates his left jab to Archie Moore and Ingemar Johansson prior to Floyd's first meeting with Sonny Liston in 1962.

(Above) Patterson visits the Marines at Khe Sanh, South Vietnam in 1967 on a tour of the war zone. (Below) Floyd poses with actress Jane Russell on the set of "Johnny Reno" in Hollywood in 1965.



Floyd pays a visit to President John F. Kennedy in January, 1962, in connection with Big Brothers Week.

INGEMAR JOHANSSON 1959-1960



Ingemar Johansson (seated) was the honored guest at an American Cancer Society dinner. Other celebrities honoring Ingo were (left to right) Bob Turley, Carmen Basilio, Phil Rizzuto, Allie Reynolds and Otto Graham.

Johnsson, training for his third match with Patterson back in 1961, gets an assist with his head guard from his sparring partner, none other than Cassius Clay.

Ingemar gets his uniform checked by Lt. Col. C.J. Stadler, USMC, for his role as a Marine in "All The Young Men," made in 1959 which starred Alan Ladd and Sidney Poitier.

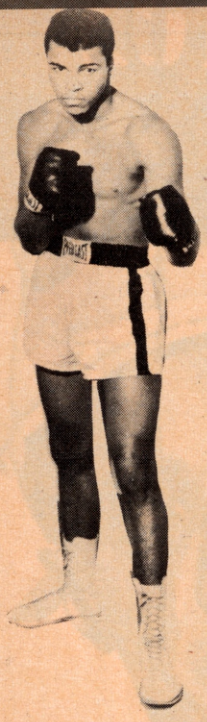
SONNY LISTON 1962-1964

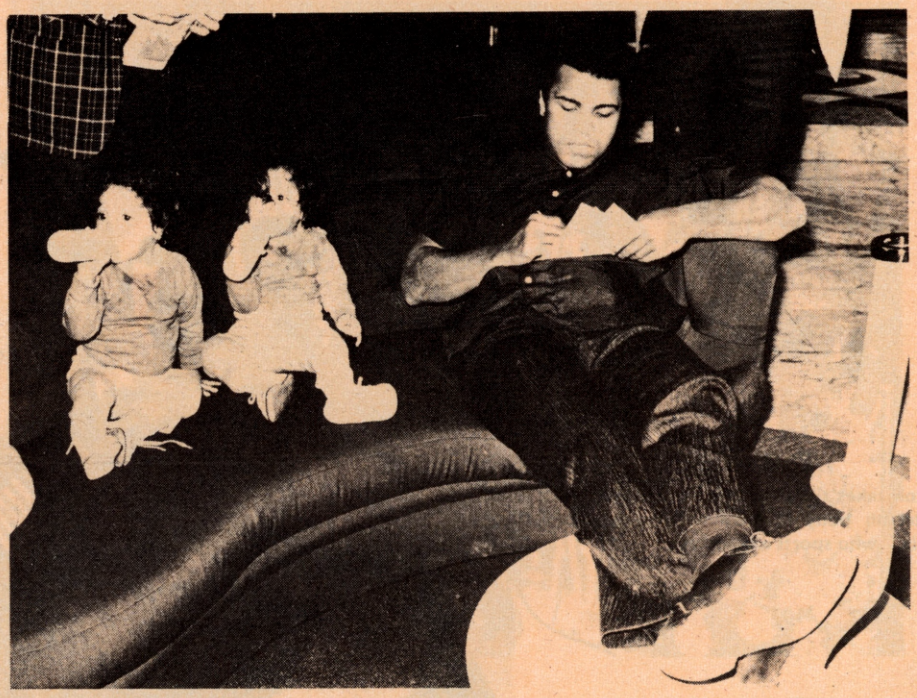
Liston takes time out from training for first Patterson bout to play with cute pooch "Trix," who sports a black eye.

(Left) No, it's not Lady Godiva, it's Sonny Liston riding a white horse through the streets of Newcastle-On-Tyne, England during a European tour in 1963.

(Right) Try as he might, Liston fails to lift 107-pound oldtime bantamweight champ Johnny Coulon. Many have tried but no one has ever been able to lift the old fellow. His secret is the applying of pressure to a vital spot.

CASSIUS CLAY (MUHAMMAD ALI) 1964-1970





Clay concentrates on some paperwork while his twin daughters, Reeshemay and Jamillah concentrate on their milk.

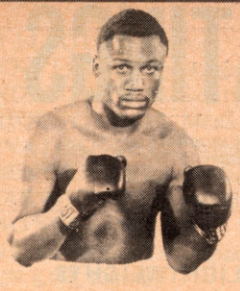
(Right) Muhammad kneels in prayer during visit to the International Islamic Center in Tokyo in March, 1972. Ali was there for his contest with Mac Foster.

JOE FRAZIER 1970-



Here is Frazier playing the drums with the Red Garter Banjo Band in Detroit. It's one of his favorite pastimes.

Joe looks rather ferocious as he cuts a piece of birthday cake during a training period in Miami, Fla. in 1970.

The current heavyweight king gets a few words of advice from one of the greatest champions of the past, Jack Dempsey.

OLD BROADWAY

Petey Scalzo, former NBA feather king, and Jimmy Carter, who was then lightweight boss. During World War 2, Seitz was an Air Force pilot.

Recalling our pleasant three-day sojourn at Mount Airy Lodge, in the Poconos, when the boxing convention was held, we just remembered a real nice guy from ye olden days, who was an active glove man as an amateur from 1936 to 1938, and later as a pro for several more years, when he had as his managers Lew Burston and Chickie Bogard and Artie Rose was his trainer. We're referring to Dominick DeCiantis, of Providence, R.I., who fought under the name of Dom Deci. He was a lightweight and later a junior welter, having 100 pro scraps, tangling with Marty Servo.

Dominick, who was 58 last Oct. 25, is married and he and his wife Nellie have one son, Dominick, Jr., and two grandchildren. He has been working for the state of Rhode Island traffic control.

Some time ago we ran into a former local favorite, Sammy Meadows, who started his fistic career as a featherweight and was graduated into the welter division. Sammy, who was born on Feb. 15, 1917, had 150 amateur bouts and forty pro skirmishes. His managers were Frankie Jay (Jacobs) and the late Bobby North, with Ray Arcel as his trainer. Saw amateur action in 1931 and was active until 1938.

Meadows for 32 years has been affiliated with the Post Office. He and his wife Gloria have been blessed with two children, a boy and a girl. . .Among those whom Meadows fought are Vince Pimpinella, Petey Gulotta, Bricio Garcia and Ray Nash.

Meadows like to talk over old times. He remenisces about Georgie Seiger, now 79, who is still a close friend of Sammy Richman, who years ago was associated in boxing promotion with the late Max Joss at the Broadway Arena and other clubs.

TOKYO FIGHT WRITERS PICK OHBA AS JAPAN'S TOP STAR OF 1972

TOKYO, JAPAN—Masao Ohba, flyweight speedster, was chosen Japan's Fighter of the Year by the Tokyo Boxing Writers Club. Masao kept his WBA version with a 15 round decision over Susumu Hanagata. He knocked out Orland Amores, Panama, in 5 rounds on June 20 and flattened Dominican Natalio Jimenez in five on Sept. 26.

Ohba, an excellent jabber, has been undefeated for years, beating almost all top notchers but Erbito Salvarria in the 112-pound class. Filipino Erbito is still supported by The Ring.

The other awards went to the following Japanese whose campaigns were impressive in 1972:

KO Award,—Koichi Wajima; Fighting Spirit,—Apollo Yoshio; Efforts,—Genzo Kurosawa. Special citations were given to former champions of Hiroshi Kobayashi, Shozo Saijo and Yoshiaki Numata, who had hung up his gloves in 1972.

The Fight of the Year was unanimously chosen from the Ohba-Amores competition. Both kissed the canvas. Ohba, avenged with a windmill rally to gain a clearcut kayo win.

Kazuo Kabayashi, featherweight Olympian, was the best amateur boxer of the year. The fistic front in Japan seems to rebound despite a recent split of Club Honors' Association. A triple title card drew 3200 customers who packed Korakuen Hall, record breaking in the history of the Mecca of fighting here.

on could have won the world championship.

In the Duran-Buchanan fight a world championship was won—the only battle among the five involved in which a title changed hands.

When Duran defended his lightweight championship against Esteban DeJesus, the first of the ten rounds was of primary importance. The title was not involved. DeJesus came out blazing and within a minute had the world champion on the floor. It was the first such indignity of Roberto's career and it undoubtedly had a strong effect on Duran's fight pattern and psychology.

Worthy of mention was the 10th round of the fight in which Peppermint Frazier lost the world junior welter championship. Frazier was knocked down thrice as he tried desperately to save the title from Antonio Cervantes, unrated in recent years.

The 12th round of the fight in which Rudi Schmidtke took the European light heavy leadership from Chris Finnegan belongs among the classic sessions of the year.

As the round opened, Finnegan had the points. But, of a sudden, the German started a fiery fusillade which staggered the astonished and bewildered Chris, and soon the European title went winging from Britain to Germany.

Ernie Terrell, once a big factor in the heavyweight situation, put on a big round, the sixth and last, when he knocked out Jose Luis Garcia at Caracas. Garcia was fighting for his life. Terrell was fighting for fresh recognition among the top heavies. Ernie decked Garcia thrice and belted him out of the ring in that wild sixth.

Nevertheless, getting back to the winner—Muhammad Ali-Foster 5th, in opening this interesting round, Ali had a mouse under his left eye. Muhammad drove two hard lefts to the face and then landed an uppercut. Ali was more aggressive now and decked Bob with a right and left to the head. Foster was back on his feet at eight and now the former heavy champ swarmed all over the man he outweighed by 41 pounds. Ali belted Bob with a series of combinations but Foster was game and still fighting. A left hook warned Ali not to get too gay at this point and he backed away. Foster crashed a couple of rights to Ali's left eye, cutting it and later forcing five stitches. Ali delivered a left hook which floored Foster for eight. Foster suffered four knockdowns in this round but the fighters had waived the rule which, in New York, would have ended the match, subject to three knockdowns inside any round. This was a wild round, and Cassius was cut for the first time in his career.

SHERWOOD IN JACKIE'S PLACE ON N.Y. COMMISSION

GOVERNOR Nelson Rockefeller, of New York, has appointed Ken Sherwood, of New York City, to the State Boxing Commission, in place of the late Jackie Robinson.

Sherwood is a Negro, without any boxing history. His associates on the Commission are Eddie Dooley, chairman, and Albert Berkowitz, of Granville, N.Y.

PUNCH LINES

LOVE ALLOTEY'S PLIGHT

I am writing to you hoping that you may be able to tell my story to the world. I have not been able to get a fight for a long time. I have tried, calling all over the USA, and Europe, but no luck. I will fight for practically any purse, and fight anyone in the world under 135 pounds.

The matchmakers told me that no one wants to fight me. I am too strong. Also, the public wants white and Mexican fighters. I don't believe that this is fair, as I have trained and lived my life for fighting. Now they won't fight me because I am too good and black.

I am also writing to the Boxing Commission in California telling my story.

If you can help me by printing my story, you have my permission.

Love Allotey
San Jose, Cal.

Editor's Note–That the public demands white and Mexican fighters is not true. Your plight traces to your skill. You are not alone in this deplorable situation. Hold the fort. You will make it.

CONCERNING PETER JACKSON

It was learned in Roma after Peter Jackson's burial in Toowong Cemetery, that another American Negro, Jack Dorridge, paid all expenses for the erection of the memorial over Jackson's grave in the cemetery when the remains had been removed after his death in Roma on July 13, 1901.

This is the recollection of Mr. Jack Graham of Roma who also knew Peter Jackson during his residence at the Roma Sanitorium, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. McCullum (or McCallum, information on this point differs).

Mr. Graham was one of the many who made up the cortege which met Peter Jackson's funeral at a point opposite the present Roma Court House on Queen Street and followed it to the railway station where the remains were entrained for Brisbane.

The Rom Town Band led the procession, followed by representatives of the Town and District sporting bodies marching ahead of the hearse drawn by two black horses–there were no motor vehicles in those days, said Mr. Graham. "Peter Jackson was a gentleman", concluded Mr. Graham.

The monument erected over his grave is of solid block marble, upon which rests a lion at rest. On one side of the stone was a bust of the famous boxer and on the opposite side a plaque, "To The Memory of Peter Jackson, Died in Roma on July 13, 1901".

Byron W. Gokey
Richmond, Vt.

A CHEER FOR FOSTER

I saw the Muhammad–Foster fight at Tahoe and saw a real contest. I came away with the impression that, weight considered, the light heavy champion is the best fighter in the business.

It is my belief that if, like Ali, Foster had brought a well conditioned 222 pounds into the ring he would have stopped the former heavy champion.

Foster is a beautiful boxer and at 175 pounds, invincible.

However, there is no one in his weight class to dispute his supremacy. So he gave away 41 pounds–yes, 41 pounds, to get a decent pay day.

Foster is in a captive position. He cannot be beaten in his weight class and he cannot beat the major heavies. I would say that the 180 pounds he took into the Tahoe rink marked the limit of his best form.

You cannot give enough praise to Bob Foster.

Ted Garrigues
Missoula, Montana

WHAT'S THE STORY?

Listening to television–listening and watching–I keep running into something that has the tiresome refrain "What's the story?"

Now, Messrs. Ring editors, what is the Frazier-Ali story?

The Ring's comments hint that you know what is holding up the fight. Spill it. What's the story?

I am holding up my vacation plans as I wish to see this fight and to get in at a price I can afford.

Harold Cohen
Brooklyn, N.Y.

Editor's Note–The editors of this magazine know only this–Frazier and Muhammad are talking the kind of money Jack Kent Cooke says does not exist in this fight.

LEONARD'S ONE FAUX PAS

From time to time there are references to the fight in which Benny Leonard lost to Jack Britton on a foul.

It is believed that the foul was deliberate and that Leonard had no desire to take Britton's welter title from home.

I have heard it said that your Ring Detective would find a good yarn in Leonard's taking the lightweight championship from Freddy Welsh. True or false?

Gary Drago
Chicago, Ill.

Editor's Note–False. Leonard's knockout victory over the faded and ill-conditioned Welsh was no great feat. The foul against Britton remains inexplicable.

WHY WAS SCHMIDTKE "HIDDEN?"

I get up one morning to read my paper and find out in which round Finnegan stopped Schmidtke. I found that Finnegan had been knocked out.

How is it possible these days to hide a fighter the way the German was hidden?

Was Schmidtke utterly unknown? Didn't your man Tree in Germany know about Rudi?

Or was Finnegan overrated on the basis of what he took from Foster?

I am puzzled and wonder if you have an explanation.

Jack Hinton
London, England

Editor's Note–The Schmidtke case is not all by itself in boxing history. The unexpected keeps happening. Could be Schmidtke is not as great as he appeared to be against Finnegan. Could be Finnegan is not as great as he was made out to be in a harsh defeat. Boxing at all times has surprises just around the corner. They make the game so interesting.

WHY NOT HOWARD?

In the November, 1972 issue of The Ring, Frank Allnutt seems not too happy about former Canadian lightweight champion Dick (Kid) Howard being chosen for Canada's Sports Hall of Fame for 1972. Why not?

Mr. Allnutt failed to mention that the little bulldog from Halifax, who always "packed them in" fought just about all the top lightweights in his time, like Armand Savoie, Willie Toweel, Kenny Lane, Teddy (Red Top) Davis, the late Orlanda Zulleta, not to mention his classic battles with fellow "bluenosers" Jackie Hayden, and Percy Paris, Kid Lantz.

Howard was a rugged, tough crowd pleaser and deserves his place in "Canada's Hall of Fame."

Former Maritime Lightheavy champ,

(Above) Lonnie Harris misses with a long right during his middleweight bout with highly-ranked Australian Tony Mundine. The man from Down Under scored a fifth-round knockout at Brisbane. (Left) Hedgemon Lewis sticks a hard left in the face of Billy Backus during their 15-rounder at Syracuse, N.Y. Lewis won the decision and retained New York State's version of the welter crown. The rest of the world recognizes Jose Napoles.

WHO WILL WIN?

BOBBY GLEASON, veteran trainer and manager—"Ali by a decision. He's more active, more clever."

JACK AMIEL, owner of Count Turf, winner of 1951 Kentucky Derby; Jack Dempsey's restaurant partner—"Frazier will chase Clay out of the ring."

RAY CLARKE, General Secretary, British Board of Boxing Control—"I do not think Ali was in proper condition when they met before. But taking into consideration that he has been busy since, I'll go for an Ali victory on points. But only if he is in peak condition. Otherwise it will be 'Goodbye, Mr. Ali.' "

WILLIE GILZENBERG, New Jersey boxing and wrestling promoter—"Ali can't fight anymore, so I like Frazier. Frazier is much too strong for Ali."

DR. FERDIE PACHECO, Ali's personal physician—"My choice is Ali. The overwhelming factor is Ali's activity and his non-stop campaign to remain sharp. He has the determination and hunger to regain the title. Ali should win by a TKO."

JOE (YUSSEL) GROSS, former trainer of Al Singer, Freddie Steele, Babe Risko, Harry Jeffra and Mushy Callahan—"I think Frazier's too rough, too much stamina. I don't think he is as fast as he was. I figure Frazier in 10 or 11 rounds."

HATTIE WINSTON, actress-singer, star of "Two Gentlemen of Verona—"Ali has been boxing steadily and will be ready for this one. Maybe it's just women's intuition, but I think Muhammad will win a 15-round decision in a rough contest."

HARRY STICKEVERS, veteran manager—"Clay to win. Frazier is a sick man."

TEDDY BENTHAM, well-known trainer—"Frazier has too many tools for Clay."

EDDIE FUTCH, longtime manager—"I have to stick with Smokin' Joe."

ERNIE (INDIAN RED) LOPEZ, Los Angeles welterweight contender—"Muhammad Ali by a split decision."

JOE (YUSSEL) LEVY, former trainer of Lou Salica, Ben Jeby, Solly Krieger—"Frazier will knock out Clay. I think Frazier was overtrained for the first fight."

SUEY WELCH, veteran manager—"Frazier all the way. No doubt."

PETER WATERMAN, former British and European welterweight champion—"I was impressed by Frazier last time, especially when he floored Ali. Ali is now much slower and with his style he has no way of beating Joe. Only a man with a strong left jab will do that. So, it's Frazier for me, and he'll probably stop Ali."

THE P.J.'s (Barbara Glasson and Jean Napoli), popular nightclub singing duo—"In our opinion the fight will never come off. We think the unrealistic money demands being made by both Frazier and Ali are just a smokescreen to cover up Frazier's injuries after their first match. We don't think the true story of Frazier's hospital stay after their fight was ever told and feel he'll never meet Ali again."

LOU GROSS, handler of many former champions—"Frazier all the way. Ali has gone back since he fought Frazier. They are starting to reach him now. He is starting to cut. This is a sign of going backward, not forward, which is the direction you have to be going when you're in against a Frazier. Frazier should KO Ali."

JACKIE McCOY, veteran manager—"I have to stick with the guy with the big punch—Frazier."

TIM RILEY, Editor, Boxing World, London—"Ali is no longer the brilliant boxer he was before he had that enforced three-and-a-half year inactivity. He's a lot slower and it is showing in his every fight, although he is still winning. I'll take Frazier to win and to stop Ali."

HOWIE STEINDLER, veteran manager—"Clay will get off the floor and win it."

NAT BASSO, MC and Chairman of Central Area Council, England—"Ali is now much sharper and much more fit. Ali on points."

WILLIE KETCHUM, veteran manager—"It has to be Frazier again. He's too rugged."

WALTER GALLI, sports cartoonist—"Frazier. He's a harder puncher and never lets up."

STAN COURTNEY, timekeeper, England—"Ali has definitely gone back. I think Frazier will be too strong and too agressive this time. But it still could be close and I'll vote for Frazier on points."

MIKE PELLEGRINO, veteran manager—"Clay will win if he's in shape."

EDDIE MAFUZ, manager—"Clay, because he's active. Frazier is inactive. Their last fight was close. Frazier ended up worse despite the knockdown of Clay."

LENNY WILKENS, star guard, Cleveland Cavaliers—"I would pick Muhammad Ali. I don't feel that a man like Joe Frazier can lay off almost two years without competitive fighting and still be at his peak, not to mention Ali's superiority in boxing."

PHIL PEPE, sports columnist, New York Daily News—"Everytime I think about the fight, I come up with a different opinion and winner. Sometimes I think Ali will win because he has the greater motivation, because I believe he won the first fight and because he has to win so there will be a third fight. Other, less cynical times, I feel Frazier will win big because he goes into the fight without awe for Ali, which I think he had for the first six or seven rounds of the first fight. Not until he realized he could muscle Ali and Muhammad could not hurt him did Frazier become the fighter we know. My belief is that he will fight like that from round one and will be too relentless for Ali and win big. That's this week. Next week, who knows, I may have another idea."

FRANK BUTLER, boxing writer, News Of The World, London—"Frazier to win. He hits too hard and is too durable. He's a Marciano-type of fighter who will always beat the classical boxer."

MURRAY ROSE, Special Projects Editor, Associated Press—"I picked Frazier to win the first time they met. I believe Frazier will do it again, and maybe by a knockout, if they meet a second time. Frazier has the style and the ability to beat Ali. And most important, the confidence that he can do it. And Ali knows, too, that all of his talking won't help him against Frazier."

HERMAN TAYLOR veteran Philadelphia promoter— "At this writing it is possible there could be no Frazier-Ali contest in 1973 because of the champion's fight with Foreman. In the event, however, that the champion can dispose of Foreman, then I feel that Frazier will beat Ali. Frazier hits harder and his aggressiveness will win for him."

GIL CLANCY, noted trainer and manager—"Frazier by a knockout. As a fighter gets older his speed diminishes before his power. Ali has lost some speed and he cannot match Joe's power."

Make the weights even in that fight and Cassius is whipped. He ain't the fighter he used to be, and the way I always have sized him up, he never was the world wonder his supporters said he was.

I have watched movies of some of Clay's fights abroad. Like the fight with Mildenberger, which Cassius sometimes calls his toughest. If that was his toughest, well, ...

When he meets me it could turn out to be his worst fight. Foster showed what could be done to Clay. Bob cut the guy and how he hated it. Well, cuttting Clay could be fun.

Which of the following heavyweights were undefeated when they fought for the world heavyweight title? Roy Harris? James J. Jeffries? Rocky Marciano? Archie Moore? Jack Johnson? Jess Willard?

MUNIZ STOPS PRUITT IN 8, ATONING FOR FLORES UPSET

By DON FRASER

ANAHEIM Calif.—In a "must win" position, Armando Muniz rallied to stop Adolph Pruitt, of St. Louis, in the eighth round of a bitterly contested battle at Convention Center.

Muniz, who is hopeful of landing a title shot at Jose Napoles in the not too distant future, went into the Pruitt battle following an upset loss to unranked Jose Martin Flores.

For seven rounds, the 31-year-old Pruitt seemed to have the edge, mainly because he was catching Muniz with rugged blows to the head.

At the start of the eighth, Armando opened up with a vicious body attack, then switched to head. He floored Pruitt with a left hook and right to the chin. Adolph beat the count, but was helpless on the ropes and referee Dick Young wisely ended matters.

Both boys weighed the same, 145¾. Muniz' North American welterweight crown was at stake.

The gate was $16,404, contributed by 4600 fans.

Irish Mike Nixon, 162, Glendale, idle since last April, fought a cautious fight, remembering that his most recent two outings had resulted in KO losses. Mike outboxed Johnny Sharpe, 162, Santa Ana, to take a unanimous 10-round decision.

Jesse Montalvo, 118½, Los Angeles, stopped Tomas Huerta, 118, Mexico, (3); Tony Bellard, 134, Orange, decision over Jose Infante, 135, Mexico, (4).

▲STOCKTON—Rudy Villagonza, 123, Manila, P.I., stopped rugged Mexican veteran, Jose Valdez, 126, Tijuana, in the fifth round of their scheduled 10 round main event at Memorial Auditorium.

Ignacio Magana, 117½, Mexico, knocked out Edgar Cabahlin, 117, Philippines, (5); Mike Benitez, 130, Stockton, decisioned Ritchie Alvarado, 130½, San Jose, (10).

▲SAN DIEGO—Jack (The Giant) O'Halloran, 243, Boston, chopped down another giant, Roby Harris, 253, in the fifth round of a scheduled ten at the Coliseum.

Big Jack, who stands 6-4, had to look up to Harris, who is 6-6. A volley of rights and lefts stretched Harris for the full count.

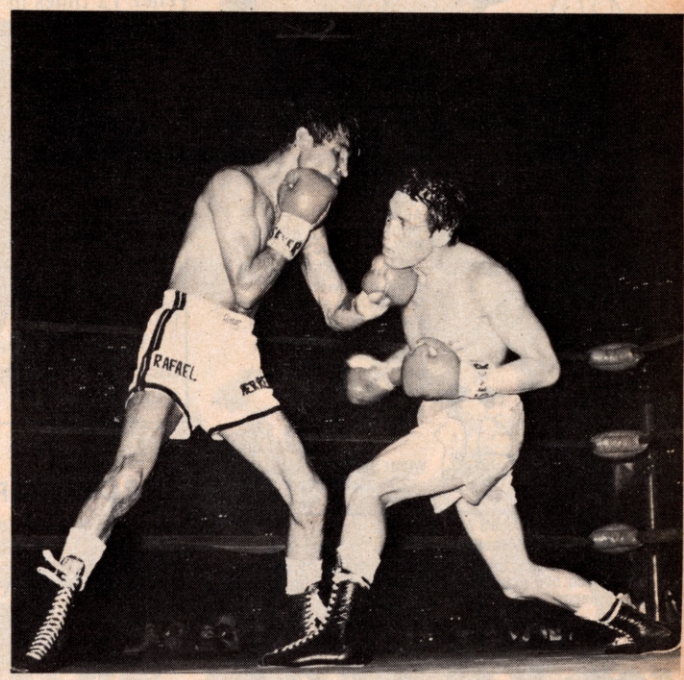
Leslie Baker, 134, South Africa, decisioned Pete Vital, 135, Los Angeles, (6); John Holterhoff, 175, San Diego, KO over Polo Ramirez, 172, San Diego, (1); Gonzalo Rodriguez, 147, San Diego, decision over Jerry Lafayette, 145, Los Angeles, (5).

The gate was a respectable $8800.

▲SAN DIEGO—Ray (Windmill) White, 178, Ventura, quit clowing and proceeded to give outclassed Bob Hazleton, 198, Los Angeles, a pounding.

The fight was stopped in the eighth with White hitting Hazleton with just about everything. It was one of the few knockouts recorded by Windmill.

▲WOODLAND HILLS—Renato Garcia, 19-year-old from Santiago, Chile, was an easy winner over Mario Marquez, Ensenada, Mexico, in 1972's final boxing card at the Valley Music Theatre.



Rafael Herrera (left) connects with a left to chin of ex-bantam king Ruben Olivares enroute to a 10-round decision in their recent meeting in L.A.

The victory was 11th straight for the South American, who turned pro last summer here. Each boxer weighed 150.

Referee Chuck Hassett scored it 6-3, judge Bobby Ring, 5-3 and judge Larry Rozadilla, 5-3, all for Garcia.

Jose Gutierrez, 119, Bakersfield, stopped Carlos Villarreal, 117, San Diego, (1); Monroe Brooks, 140, Wichita Falls, Texas, decision over Jose Miranada, 140, East Los Angeles, (6); Tony Bellard, 135, Ornage, KO over Jose Infante, 134, Los Angeles, (4).

▲LOS ANGELES—Making his first start since his KO by Danny Lopez, Mexico's Benny Rodriguez, 119, decisioned Jose Rosa, 119½, San Juan, P.R., in the 10 round feature at Olympic.

Rodriguez built up an early lead, then held off a late charge by Rosa to eke out a split verdict.

Referee Dick Young called it a draw, but judges Chuck Hassett and Eddie Fierro tabbed it 5-3, 7-2 for little Benny.

Edel Borunda, 127½, Mexico, KO over Dan Campos, 125, Los Angeles, (1); Hector Rodriguez, 125½, East Los Angeles, decision over Miguel Zar, 127, Mexico, (4); Flavio Barcena, 117½, Los Angeles, outpointed Makato Abe, 120½, Japan, (6).

Sanchez Too Heavy, Resigns Feather Title, Winner Legra Claims It

THE boxing world went into 1973 with a problem in the featherweight class.

Clemente Sanchez, of Mexico, no longer was the champion of the 126-pounders, and Jose Legra, the erratic Cuban-Spaniard, who had decked Sanchez 12 times in ten rounds at Monterrey, Mexico, presented an insistent claim to the title.

The situation is quite muddled. Sanchez could not make the featherweight limit, tipping the beam at 129 pounds.

The World Boxing Council declared the title open and then Sanchez announced that he was giving up the championship.

After having pounded Sanchez to a pulp, Legra said that the title was his.

Who is the featherweight champion of the world? Is Legra the real leader? Is the title vacant?

ROUNDUP OF THE YEAR

other countries.

Quite a few American heavies failed to make expected progress. Not only among the pros was there failure. Duane Bobick, who had been expected to win the heavyweight gold medal in the Olympic games at Munich, failed dismally. He was knocked out by the Cuban Teofilo Stevenson.

The winner, being a resident of Mr. Castro's estate, may entertain no professional ideas.

There were quite a few interesting titular changes in 1972.

There was, for one, the loss of the lightweight championship by Scotland's Ken Buchanan to Roberto Duran, of Panama.

There was the spectacular winning of the light heavyweight championship of Europe by Rudi Schmidtke, of Germany, who knocked out British Chris Finnegan in the 12th round.

Finnegan had been stopped in 14 by Bob Foster and the natural assumption was that Chris had taken on Rudi too soon—only six weeks—after the severe beating by Foster.

Antonio Cervantes, of Colombia, took the junior welter title from Peppermint Frazier with a 10-round knockout. Frazier had won the title from Nicolino Loche in March.

Enrique Pinder, of Panama, won the bantamweight title in July with a 15-round decision over Rafael Herrera, who had knocked out the skidding Ruben Olivares in eight rounds.

Mexico's Clemente Sanchez grabbed the feather championship from Japan's Kuniaki Shibata with a three-round KO in Tokyo in May.

Olivares, Shibata, and Chango Carmona rate among the leading flops of 1972. The Olivares skid is especially mysterious.

There was a time—in 1926, to be specific—when every world champion was an American. Now Uncle Sam has to be satisfied with comparatively meagre fare at the fistic table. He has Joe Frazier at the head of the star company with Bob Foster next to him.

For the middleweight champion, Carlos Monzon, we have to go to the Argentine; for the welter titleholder, to Mexico, for the Cuban-born Jose Napoles.

The junior welter leader is Antonio Cervantes, of Colombia; the lightweight titleholder is Roberto Duran, from Panama; the feather leader is Clemente Sanchez, of Mexico; the bantam champion is Enrique Pinder, of Panama; and the flyweight pace maker is Erbito Salvarria, from the Philippines.

Frazier is a great champion, Foster is a master in his class. But from these two down the ladder we run into troubled conditions for Yankee contenders for universal honors.

If you want to accept the unsupportable dictum of the New York Commission, you may add Hedgemon Lewis to the list of American champions. Eddie Dooley says Lewis is the welterweight champion. Eddie some time back declared the title vacant on a legal technicality which has not been recognized by The Ring or any other authority.

Billy Backus and Lewis met for the so-called title and Hedgemon won. Lewis repeated over Billy in December. But the official titleholder is Napoles, and the sooner the New York Commission clears up that mess the better for its standing in the company of fair and logical authoritarians in world boxing. The New York stand against Napoles is one of the most muddled in the history of muddled title situations.

The Ring census of professional boxers shows that their number has risen enormously in the last two years. There are more than 4000 active fighters in the U.S. and some 8,000 in Mexico.

With the rise in boxer population has come a more erratic personal history of world boxers.

Boxer form is more precarious than ever before. But the sport thrives hither and yon, and looks forward to more excitement, and more spectacular action, in 1973.

Bugner Belts Cane Out Of Fight In 6, Into Retirement

By RON OLVER

NOTTINGHAM, ENGLAND—European heavyweight champion Joe Bugner, 219½, continued to please the fans with another inside-schedule victory, this time over huge Italian Dante Cane, 244, who not only retired from the contest in the sixth round, but afterwards announced his retirement from boxing.

Bugner was on top all the way. Cane was too slow, and provided an easy target for the European champion, who varied his punches well and managed to score in spite of the Italian's holding and grabbing tactics.

Cane used his superior weight to get in close, but was caught with a right to the chin in the second round. In the following session Joe maneuvered his man into a corner and punched away non-stop for nearly half a minute.

The Italian came out of it with a cut on his nose, claimed he had been butted, and threw a couple of punches after the bell, which had the fans booing.

After this Cane seemed inclined only to hold on at every opportunity, and he was warned. Bugner continued to punch away, but contented himself by getting home with left jabs and not mixing it.

In the sixth Joe at last found his opening. After again getting his man in a corner, he scored with several hard body punches. Down came Cane's guard, and up came the Bugner right to the chin.

Cane went down for six, spat out his gumshield when he rose, his mouth was cut and he indicated that he was not willing to continue. Referee Roland Dakin accepted his retirement.

In one of the best fights between little men seen for some time, Dave Needham, Nottingham, 117, outscored Welsh champion Colin Miles, Cardiff, 116, over twelve rounds by 59½-58.

This was a final eliminator for the British bantamweight title, and the sort of contest that brings credit to the sport.

Both boxers had their periods of glory. Early on it was Needham who caught the eye with his southpaw right jabbing. Then Miles came into the picture with sheer aggression in the middle rounds.

Finally, Needham had to bring out his skills to overcome a completely-closed right eye in the closing stages.

The scoreline seems to indicate that Needham had it all his own way, but this was far from the true story.

It looked all Needham in the first few rounds, as he bewitched, bothered and

MENETREY HALTS LOPOPOLO IN 13, LOSER REFUSES TO STOP FIGHTING

By J. A. TREE

PARIS, FRANCE: Three French boxers, Roger Menetrey, Jacques Kechichian and Jean-Claude Bouttier, make the news of the month. Menetrey made a successful defense of his European welterweight crown, beating Sandro Lopopolo in the 13th in Grenoble.

Lopopolo strongly objected to the stoppage brought about by his manager and made several attempts to free himself from his corner men to continue the fight.

Kechichian looked all set to take Carlos Duran's European junior middleweight crown in Turin only to find himself disqualified by Spanish referee, Fernando Perotti, in the 14th for ducking dangerously low.

Perotti made it known that he had warned the Frenchman on two previous occasions but this could be confirmed by ringsiders. This was the second bout to end in controversy in which Kechichian has found himself a participant.

Earlier in the year he had fought a close affair with Jose Hernandez, Spain, only to hear the drawn verdict be changed to one of 'No Contest'. Duran has also had his share of strange decisions this being the third title fight he has won on a disqualification. Britain's Johnny Pritchett and Wally Swift were the other victims.

EBU secretary general Piero Pini, has barred referee Fernando Perotti from handling European title fights for two years.

Bouttier found himself relieved of his European middleweight crown by the EBU for not making a defense against Dane Tom Bogs.

Bouttier took the crown from Carlos Duran, Italy, in Paris on June 9, 1971, made defenses the same year against Fabio Bettini and Bunny Sterling, but has not put it at stake since. The Frenchman has, however, met world champion Carlos Monzon for the title.

Jean-Claude Bouttier (left) gestures that he was struck low by Emile Griffith in the seventh round of their bout in Paris. Griffith (right) protests the referee's disqualification of him in that round.

I doubt if Bouttier will lose any sleep over the EBU's action. If he fails in another attempt to win the crown from Monzon, he can return to the European scene and pick up his lost crown any time he desires.

In the second round, Finnegan connected with a crisp left-right combination that surprised Foster. During the next few rounds, as Finnegan stayed with big Bob, the British crowd began to think there was a possibility that Finnegan might overturn the tables. For instance, in the sixth and seventh rounds, Finnegan more than held his own as Foster appeared to be coasting, out to conserve his strength for the full distance.

Whenever Chris took the fight to the champion the crowd chanted "Finn-e-gan–Finn-e-gan" at the top of its collective lungs.

The eighth was action-packed, with the pair trading punch for punch for a long period, with Foster delivering the heavier blows. After Chris did rather well in the ninth, the champion floored Finnegan for the first time in his career in the tenth with a smashing right. After taking an eight-count, Chris took the fight to Foster. It was all hard going after that with Foster surprising everyone by dancing away from Finnegan with hands dangling at his sides.

By the 13th, both men were obviously tired. Finnegan had acquired a cut under the right eye, a cut near the left, plus some swelling, not to mention a pair of swollen lips.

Foster hurt Finnegan with three hard rights in the 13th, forcing Chris to hold after his legs had turned rubbery.

Then, in the 14th, just as most spectators were sure the contest would go the full distance, Foster struck. He set up Chris with a stiff left jab, then connected with a lethal right to the jaw, sending Chris to a sitting position on the canvas near his own corner. Finnegan, unable to rise in time, was counted out at 55 seconds of the round.

Paying tribute to Finnegan, Foster said he was "the toughest light heavyweight I've ever met."

In return, Chris said, "Foster was the hardest puncher I've ever faced." Thus ended The Ring's Fight of the Year.

▲WOODLAND HILLS—At his clowning best, Ray (Windmill) White, 175, took a clear cut 12 round decision over Orlando de la Fuente, 173, East Los Angeles, at Valley Music Theatre.

The only knockdown occurred after the bell had ended the 11th round. De la Fuente kicked White in the rear and the Ventura carpenter took a fall.

Lyle Stops Middleton In Third Round At Denver

DENVER, Colo.—Undefeated heavyweight Ron Lyle solidified his Top 10 standing when he disposed of Larry Middleton in the third round of their scheduled 10 at the Coliseum.

Lyle scored his 19th straight victory, 17 coming via the knockout route. His most recent 11 bouts ended in knockouts.

A crowd of 8,520 battled below-zero weather and snow to watch the fight.

Four times Middleton hit the deck, once in the second and three times in the decisive third frame.

The fight officially ended at the 2:34 mark of the third round after Lyle had sent Middleton crashing to the canvas unconscious. Referee Joe Ullmer didn't have to count Middleton out, because of the three-knockdown rule. But if he had he probably could have counted to 20.

Middleton was completely at Lyle's mercy in the second and third rounds as he went down to his third defeat in 24 bouts. One ended in a draw. He now has lost twice in a row, having dropped a narrow decision to Jerry Quarry last May 9 in England.

"I'M BETTER NOW AND WILL PROVE IT"

There will be no more clowning. I am going to train seriously for Frazier. Not that I wasn't in condition in our New York fight. I just didn't have all the pieces back together yet.

I'll work in my camp in Deer Lake, Pennsylvania. It's really beautiful there. I've never seen a better place for a fighter to train. The air is clean, there are plenty of good roads for running, I can hike up in the hills, chop trees and eat fresh vegetables and nice fresh fish cooked by my own chef at the camp where I have dining facilities.

I won't take 90 people to camp with me. It's going to be all hard work. When I come in for the fight, I'll come by helicopter. No more sleeping on a cot, like I did when I was stuck in Madison Square Garden the day of the fight. I couldn't get any proper rest.

Remember that Joe Frazier had to take this fight. He couldn't wait until I got too old. I'm better now than I was then and I'm going to prove it.

FIGHTER OF THE YEAR

again in 1965; Nino Benvenuti, Italy, 1968; Jose Napoles, Mexico, 1969; and now Monzon, Argentina, 1972.

It did not take imitators very long to follow the lead of The Ring in making the Fighter of the Year citation. The Ring feels flattered and cherishes the belief that in giving a world recognized Fighter of the Year to boxing it has done the sport a splendid service. It already had performed a major benefice to the game by devising the ratings, which now are considered musts in the operation of professional boxing the world over.

Why did The Ring find it necessary to split the 1972 Fighter of the Year award?

Getting a valuable assist from the Supreme Court of the United States, which had made him eligible, the selectors found that in 1972, Ali, the former world champion has had six bouts and had won them all.

His record for the year stands like this:

April 1, Mac Foster, Tokyo, W 15;

May 2, George Chuvalo, Vancouver, B.C., W 12;

June 27, Jerry Quarry, Las Vegas, KO 7;

July 1, Al Lewis, Dublin, KO 11;

Sept. 20, Floyd Patterson, New York, KO 7;

Nov. 21, Bob Foster, Stateline, Nev., KO 8.

In stopping Foster, the light heavyweight champion of the world, Clay performed one of the outstanding feats of the year, even though he had had an advantage of 41 pounds over Bob. Ali knocked him down four times in one round and seven times in the fight.

Foster made it a fight and in the process gave Muhammad an eye cut which needed five stitches and achieved a trick hitherto unperformed against the Muslim Imam.

In addition to his half dozen formal fights, Ali appeared in numerous exhibitions. Ali not only kept active and had taken them on as they came along in preparation for the confrontation with Joe Frazier, which may come this year, but had excited fans everywhere and performed a valuable service for boxing.

True, Ali had no title to defend. True, Ali did not look as good as the fighter who had beaten Sonny Liston twice and gone on to meet the world.

But to Ali, boxing in 1972 owed a vital debt. Take Muhammad's record out of the year's performances and we face an aching void.

However, pick Ali alone and you fail to do the right thing by Monzon, a great middleweight, who four times in 1972 defended the title he had won from Nino Benvenuti. Here is a transcript of the Argentinian's 1972 record:

March 4, Denny Moyer, Rome, KO 4;

June 17, Jean Claude Bouttier, Paris, KO 12;

August 19, Tom Bogs, Copenhagen, KO 5;

Nov. 11, Bennie Briscoe, Buenos Aires, W 15.

The fight with Bouttier ultimately turned the scales in favor of Monzon to the point at which he established his right to consideration for the Fighter of the Year laurels.

The 15-round victory over Briscoe clinched the decision to split the big award and give half to Carlos and half to Ali.

The debate concerning the citation was about as heated as The Ring staff had had on this subject since 1933.

Personalities had to be submerged and considerations for the good and welfare of boxing had to be considered paramount.

No eligibles other than Ali and Carlos were discussed for the Fighter of the Year.

However, there were hot debates having to do with 3, 4 and 5 selections.

The No. 3 citation went to Tony Mundine, the Australian middleweight, with Enrique Pinder, Panama, who had won the bantam title, No. 4, and Esteban De Jesus, of Puerto Rico, who had beaten lightweight champion Roberto Duran, Panama, in a non-title ten round battle, clearly entitled to No. 5.

Ali and Carlos carried their major claims over from the past. But Mundine, Pinder and De Jesus were largely creations of 1972 competition.

With the top five out of the way the scramble became truly hectic for honorable mention.

During the hours of debate Ron Lyle, the Denver heavy, marshalled strong support.

So did Bob Foster, despite his KO by Muhammad. Others who were discussed for their standout performances were Rudi Schmidtke, Germany, who stopped Chris Finnegan after the Briton had made his notable stand against Foster; Antonio Cervantes, the Colombian junior welter who had taken the world title from Peppermint Frazier; lightweight Rudolfo Gonzalez, junior welter Bruno Arcari; and junior lightweights Ben Villaflor and Vic Echegaray.

It is interesting that neither Joe Frazier, the heavyweight champion of the world, and George Foreman, most of 1972 rated the No. 2 contender behind Ali, got any consideration for any distinctions. Rather strange, but factual, nevertheless.

Frazier and Foreman carried their meeting over from 1972 into the new year. Despite his defeat by De Jesus, and on the basis of his summary disposal of Ken Buchanan for the lightweight title, Roberto Duran was discussed.

THE BRITISH ISLES

bewildered Miles with a series of right jabs and even got him with following left crosses.

Miles was consistently being beaten to the punch, but with sheer tenacity and determination he got back into the fight in the fifth, when it was Needham who for once was hurt by a couple of right hands.

Miles continued to do well at close quarters, but he was hurt in the sixth by a left hook that made him hold on grimly. A swelling appeared under Needham's right eye in this round.

This gave Miles encouragement, and he waded into his opponent with a will. He was superbly fit, and Needham was obviously handicapped by his injury.

It was punch for punch right up to the final session, when Miles staged a grandstand finish. A left hook to the head and body punches had Needham backing, but only momentarily, and he was soon battling it out toe-to-toe with his willing opponent.

Both were tired, Needham probably more than Miles, but both earned the applause they recieved.

They say that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. But try telling that to Howard Hayes, Doncaster, 125¾, who for the second time was beaten by Evan Armstrong, Ayr, 122¾, on an eye injury, and in the same round, the sixth, on each occasion.

When they met before Armstrong was champion, and it was a British title fight. Armstrong has since lost his title to Tommy Glencross, and this time they were meeting in a final eliminator.

Hard luck on Hayes, and yet another lease of life for the 29-year-old Armstrong. Hayes took the early rounds, and Armstrong was getting home with heavy right-hand punches in the two rounds before the stoppage.

Armstrong had cuts by both eyes, Hayes bled from the nose, and in the sixth one of Evans' rights opened a cut by his opponent's left eye, which bled profusely.

With the Scot piling on the pressure and throwing several righthanders the bout was stopped.

Midlands Area welter champ Robin Polak, Nottingham, 150, had it easy over Martin Dowd, Liverpool, 152, who was taking part in only his second bout. Polak won by 39¾-39 over eight "twos."

Polak looked to have won by an even greater margin. He is rated No. 20 in Britain and Dowd No. 53 by Boxing World, so the verdict came as no surprise. Dowd had cuts on the nose and right eye.

George McKay, Edinburgh, 128½, stopped Joey Anastacio, Liverpool, in the first session. A right to the head had Anastacio completely dazed.

Simon Rawlings, Coventry, 141¼, drew with Tony Poole, Kettering, 144½, over eight "twos", but Poole looked unlucky not to get the verdict.

▲World Sporting Club—Southpaw Richard Dunn, Halifax (207) gained yet another win in his campaign to get a British title fight, outpointing American-born Ray Patterson, now a Swedish citizen, 202, over eight by 39½-39¼.

Dunn hooked well to the head in the early rounds, then switching to a jabbing attack in the fourth.

Patterson had been inactive, and was having only his second fight since drawing with British and Commonwealth champion Danny McAlinden two years ago. This was evident, as he fought in bursts, but kept going, in spite of being in difficulties on several occasions.

A competent performance by Dunn, and the points margin looked even larger.

Billy Hardacre, Liverpool, 128, outpointed Bingo Crooks, Wolverhampton, 128, over eight and deserved his win, putting in a strong finish.

Hardacre was down in the second from a left to the head, but wasn't bothered, and rose to take the fight to Crooks.

From the fourth onwards Billy assumed control, and was better at close quarters than his opponent, who showed a good left jab at long range.

Rod Griffiths, Harlesden, 149½, got the referee's nod after eight against Kenny Webber, Manchester, 149, points 39¼-39, but the patrons showed their disapproval.

Webber seemed well on top, with Griffiths in trouble on several occasions, and although the latter put up a good fight he was nearly stopped in the two final sessions.

Peter Mullins, Wolverhampton, 163, stopped Tony Burnett, Cardiff, 163½, in the fourth, the latter sustaining an eye injury. Burnett looked ahead at this stage.

▲Anglo-Welsh Sporting Club, Caerphilly—Mal Isaacs, 197, Brynmawr, stopped Del Phillips, Cardiff, 199½, in seven, the latter retiring at the end of the round with an injured jaw, which was afterwards found to be broken.

This was a hectic contest in which Isaacs was in pain from an alleged kidney punch at the end of the sixth, when the exchanges continued after the bell. Then, in the following round, Phillips was down twice, and the bell looked to have saved him.

This was Isaacs' first scheduled eight-rounder, and he keeps his unbeaten record.

Nobbins were thrown into the ring after former British Junior welter champ Des Rea, Belfast, 149½, had outpointed Tommy Joyce, Doncaster, 147½, over eight by 39½-39¼.

These two southpaws really served it up and it was nip and tuck all the way. Joyce was cut over the left eye in the fourth, and although it didn't seem to worry him, he was never quite the same force after.

Joyce took the first couple of rounds, then it was Rea's turn, and Tommy's nose bled. The Belfast boxer put in an impressive finish, which clinched the verdict.

It was nobbins again in the drawn bout between Les Pickett, Merthyr, 123, and Sammy Vernon, Belfast, 123, and there could have been little argument over referee James Brimmell's verdict after eight rounds.

When they met before, Pickett won on an eye injury, but Vernon was determined to try and avenge this defeat, jabbing well with his southpaw right.

Pickett was cut around the nose and eye, but made light of these handicaps and impressed with his body punching.

Colin Davies, Aberavon, 159½, stopped Clive Collins, Llantwit Major, 156½, in three on an eye injury. When they met before it was Collins who won on an injury. This time southpaw Davies was in front when the stoppage came.

Reg Jenkins, Carphilly, 179, made a fine debut, conceding a stone and outpointing Bruce Woodward, Stafford, 193, over six by 30-28½.

Billy Belnavis, Wolverhampton, 130½, caused a shock by stopping ABA bantam finalist Martin Galleozzie, Merthyr, 128, in the first round. It was Galleozzie's debut, and he was decked four times.

▲Midlands Sporting Club, Solihull—Not very often does a British champion take on a leading contender in a non-title fight, but new British featherweight champion Tommy Glencross, Glasgow, took the chance, and was held to a draw by Jimmy Bell, Kilmarnock, over eight. Each weighed 128.

It was Tommy's first bout as champion and he gradually warmed up after a slow start. Bell was the busier of the two for quite a while, but in the second half Glencross improved a lot, counterpunched and hooked well.

It wasn't a good fight and Glencross admitted afterwards that he had been sluggish, and not able to get going. But he added that over the full championship route of 15 rounds it would have been a different story.

Vaughan Innocent, Cardiff, 162, outscored Dave Nelson, Wolverhampton, 163½, over eight by 39¼-39. Nelson floored his man for seven in the second round, but allowed him to recover. Innocent came back to jab his way to victory.

Impressive win for Sid Falconer, Bournemouth, 177¾, who outpointed Dave Hawkes, Farnham, 180½, over eight by 39½-39¼. It was punch for punch throughout, an exciting fight in which Hawkes was cut on the nose and mouth, and around the eyes.

Falconer has been improving rapidly in his last few fights, and this was the most important win of his career.

John O'Rawe, Belfast, 128½, kayoed Des Josephs, Cardiff, 128½, who was making his debut, in two rounds.

John McKnight, Glasgow, 119, drew with George Hind, Edinburgh, 118, over eight. Both had facial damage in an uninspiring contest.

▲Civic Hall, Wolverhampton—Bunny Johnson, Jamaica, 182, provided plenty of aggression and showed impressive form in stopping American Roger Russell, 189, in five.

Johnson has been clamoring for a Commonwealth title fight for some time now, and in a few months he will also be eligible to box for the British crown on a ten-year residential qualification.

It was all Johnson, as he waded into the American, producing a left uppercut for which Russell had no reply. The latter took it all for four rounds, but in the fifth Bunny went after his man, jolting him with left hooks and right crosses.

Russell staggered back, hands by his sides, and the referee immediately stopped it. Russell's next opponent was to have been champion Danny McAlinden, but this defeat rules that one out.

ABA heavyweight champion Tim Wood, Leicester, 192, having only his second pro bout, did well to outpoint the experienced Ade Ajasco, Nigeria, 178, over eight by 39¾-39.

Wood had a considerable weight advantage, but he needed this against an opponent who is used to boxing over longer distances. However, these were two-minute rounds, so Wood tried to keep it at long range, where he could outjab his man.

Ajasco got home with good right crosses in the middle rounds, and Wood sustained a cut under the left eye, but kept going and finished well. The verdict was fair, the margin flattered him, but he proved he can box well under pressure.

Guinea Roger, Nigeria, 178½, stopped Frank Carpenter, Coventry, 192, in the first round, a left swing to the side of the head doing the trick. Carpenter sagged at the knees, appeared to go down, and was up immediately. Then, as Roger followed up and was punching his man almost at will, the referee intervened.

A setback for Carpenter after seven straight wins.

Woody Vuckovic, Clapham, 217, easily outpointed Billy Wynter, Antigua, 212, over six, by 30-28¾. Woody remains unbeaten, but needs to put more bite into his work.

Simon Rawlings, Birmingham, 141, drew with Hughie Clark, Battersea, 142, over eight "twos."

▲National Sporting Club, London—A clear points win for unbeaten Eddie Neilson, Swindon, 207½, over Welsh heavyweight champion Dennis Avoth, Cardiff, 192, score 39¾-38¾ after eight rounds.

Southpaw Neilson found it tough going, and in the hectic exchanges Avoth was warned for a low blow in the second, then for laying on, and both for misuse of the head.

Avoth would never concede an inch, and although Neilson kept his right jab working he couldn't afford to relax, especially as he was cut by the left eye in the fourth.

It was Neilson's seventh win in a row.

Peter Brisland, Southampton, 170, outpointed Terry Armstrong, Manchester, 176¾, by 39¼-39 over eight, overcoming an eye injury.

Les Avoth, Cardiff, 163½, stopped Sid Brown, Bournemouth, 162½, in five. Avoth jabbed his way home against an aggressive opponent.

Liam White, Wells, 150, stopped Ray Thorogood, Cardiff, 153, in two. Thorogood was down three times.

▲Anglo-American Sporting Club, London—Pat McCann, Harrow, 163, made it 13 straight wins, impressively stopping Paddy Doherty, Ballyshannon, 163, in the fifth round.

Doherty was decked in the opening round, and again in the fourth. He could never catch McCann, who got home with frequent southpaw right jabs, survived a body shot that looked low, and was well on top when the stoppage came.

Johnny Fitzgerald, Blackheath, 130, outscored Young Silky, Leeds, 128, over eight by 39¼-39, but the margin looked greater. Silky was down twice, his nose bled, and put in a strong finish but was always being outpunched.

ABA welterweight champion Trevor Francis, Basingstroke, 148½, had it easy in his second pro bout by stopping Pat Marshall, Bristol, 147½, in three. Marshall was willing enough, but was shipping punishment.

Pat Thompson, Highbury, 169¼, outpointed Joe Gregory, Mitcham, 166½, by 29¾-29½ over six. In spite of some booing it looked a good result.

▲Cliffs Pavilion, Southend—Central area welter champion Mickey Flynn, Manchester, 148, stopped Dave Cranswick, Cardiff, 148, in the fifth, a surprisingly easy victory over good-class opposition.

Flynn gradually wore his man down until Cranswick was offering little resistance. His nose bled, and the stoppage was inevitable. Flynn started by jabbing well with his southpaw right, and later produced effective combination-punching.

Charlie Cooper, Southampton, 148, beat Pat Thomas, Cardiff, 146, who was disqualified in the seventh for hitting after the bell. It was Cooper's eleventh straight win since turning pro.

A hard bout, full of incident, with warnings being issued in the fourth and fifth. Thomas revealed a good left lead, Cooper was happiest when he was fighting it out, but a little less fury and a little more coolness would have seen both boxers in a better vein.

Peter Brisland, Southampton, 171, knocked out Johnny Wall, Shoreditch, in 24 seconds. A cracking right to the jaw, and that was that. Wall was down—and well out.

Derek Simpson, Kilmarnock, 148, outpointed Peter Blake, Southend, 152, over eight by 40-38¾, and deserved his win over an opponent who never stopped trying.

Jan Magdiarz, Southampton, 157, stopped Dave Nelson, Wolverhampton, 160, in the first round. A right to the head had Nelson in trouble after half a minute, and the bout was halted after 1 min. 46 sec.

Pat Thompson, Islington, 173, outscored Vernon Shaw, Mottingham, 174, by 39¾-39, Thompson landing the cleaner punches.

▲Midland Hotel, Bradford—Lloyd Walford, Jamaica, 173, won the vacant Central Area cruiserweight title by outpointing Geoff Shaw, Manchester, over ten by 49½-48¾. In spite of the scoreline it was a closely-fought contest.

Walford jabbed his way to a points lead in the early rounds, and whenever this stung Shaw into action, Lloyd would use his superior speed to skip out of trouble.

There was a lot of close-quarter work in the middle rounds, with Shaw doing well and always willing to make a fight of it, Walford relied on his skillful boxing, and his long left was always in evidence.

Good to see official recognition for Walford, who qualifies under the ten-years residential clause.

George Davies, Manchester, 197, outscored Kenny Burrell, 196, over six by 30-28½. Both were making their pro debuts. A crowd-pleasing bout between two 19-year-olds.

Jess Harper, Manchester, 146¾, survived a knockdown in the first round to outbox and outpoint Jimmy Corrigan, Doncaster, 147½, over six by 29½-29¼.

▲Royal Albert Hall, London—John H. Stracey, Bethnal Green, 147¼, damaged his right hand in the third round, but was still far too good for Puerto Rican David Melendez, 148, stopping him in the seventh.

After a busy start, Melendez faded, and was a well-beaten man at the end. He was cut by the left eye and bled from the nose. At the end of the sixth he stayed on his stool when the bell rang, whereupon referee Harry Gibbs quickly grabbed him off it.

Stracey jabbed well throughout, but had difficulty in seeing from his right eye, having to blink furiously from what appeared to be a prod by Melendez' thumb.

But John overcame these handicaps, and wore his man down by accurate jabbing. As Melendez tired so it became easier for Stracey, and he was punishing his man at will when referee Gibbs intervened.

Conceding a stone and several inches in height and reach proved quite a handicap to John Conteh, Liverpool, 183½, but he eventually stopped American Sam McGill, 197½, in the ninth.

Conteh was dwarfed by his lanky opponent, and on the occasions when he got through the latter's defenses seemed reluctant to follow up. However, in the sixth he delivered a right-left-left combination that spun McGill around and put him down for nine, looking very unsteady.

However, the bell rang as soon as he got up, and Conteh couldn't put him down again. Nevertheless he was well on top, and with McGill looking very weary, Conteh should have piled on the pressure instead of holding back.

When he eventually did go in, snapping hard hooks to the head, McGill didn't have the strength to fight back, and the referee intervened.

Conteh had a slight bruise under the left eye, and again had to endure a slow-handclap from the fans. This is tough when he wins, but this hesitancy can be overcome.

Olympic Bronze Medallist Alan Minter, Crawley, 158¼, made it three quick wins in as many bouts by stopping Austrian middleweight champion Anton Schnedl, 157, in the seventh round.

Minter didn't find it as easy as in his previous bouts, but this should have been expected against a seasoned professional. Alan revealed enough to show that he is a fine prospect, and with more experience will continue to improve.

The accurate right jabs from southpaw Minter slowed down the Austrian, who only occasionally came out of his shell and threw a few right swings. But in the main Minter was well on top, and referee Harry Gibbs' decision to stop it came as no surprise.

The fans mustn't expect Minter to know it all after only three bouts. He's got to serve his apprenticeship and will make mistakes. It's the only way to learn.

Paddy Maguire, Belfast, 116½, put off his honeymoon in order to meet Canadian Barry Sponagle, 124½, whom he easily outpointed over eight rounds by 40-38, winning every round.

Probably the main reason he didn't stop Sponagle was the vast difference in weight. Certainly he tried hard enough, and in spite of having a massive points lead kept punching away with hooks from both hands to try and halt his man.

Sponagle pluckily kept going, but finished with cuts from nose and mouth. Maguire got a nick over the right eye in the opening session.

Graham Sines, Battersea, 173½, having his second fight as a cruiser after coming down from heavyweight, outpointed Geoff Shaw, Manchester, 176½, over eight by 39¼-39.

The verdict was hotly disputed by Shaw and a section of the crowd, but it looked just about right. It was close enough to provoke booing whichever of the three possible verdicts was given.

Sines impressed early on with clean left jabbing, and had built up quite a lead by the time Shaw starting getting into the fight.

Sines was down in the sixth, up immediately, and again in the final session, when he looked very tired.

A good rally by Shaw, but not quite good enough.

Pat Dwyer, Liverpool, 160¼, outscored American Gene Wells, 157¼, over eight by 39¾-39. Dwyer was substituting for Mark Rowe, who was still bothered by a recent eye injury.

Dwyer was erratic in the first few rounds, but floored Wells briefly only for the latter to punch it out toe-to-toe in the last couple of rounds. The American showed up well, and the margin perhaps flattered Dwyer just a little.

▲Leeds Town Hall—The inevitable booing after a drawn contest, and the supporters of Billy Waith, Cardiff, 128½, thought he deserved to get the verdict over Alan Richardson, Fitzwilliam, 128, whose fans of course had opposite opinions.

A fine contest with Richardson providing most of the aggression and Waith countering to good effect. Alan launched an all-out assault in the final round, but Waith punched with him.

George Evans, Merthyr, 137, produced a fine performance to outpoint Tommy Sobles, Leeds, 138, by 39½-39¼ over eight. A near thing, as near as their last encounter, when it was Sobles who won by a similar margin.

In spite of a cut over the left eye, Evans kept his man at bay with precise punching, and Sobles' aggressive efforts were just not enough to gain him the verdict.

Bob Tuckett, Leeds, 169¼, drew with Chuck Jones, Swansea, 172½, over eight, in a hectic bout with little regard paid to defenses. Jones' left eye was swollen and he bled from the nose.

Tuckett finished the stronger, and the result seemed a fair one.

Tony Bagshaw, Hull, 150, narrowly outscored Kevin White, Wells, 149½, by 29¾-29½ over six, but again there was booing. Bagshaw bled from the nose sustained in the opening session, but took the fight to Wells, whose best punch was his left jab.

Dave Grantley, Hull, 128½, outpointed John O'Rawe, Belfast, 127¼, by 29¾-29½ over six, and following the pattern of the evening, brought booing.

O'Rawe was on top in the opening rounds, Grantley rallied in the second half of the fight and by taking the last session, just got in front.

▲National Sporting Club, London—Noel McIvor, Luton, 138¼, Southern Area lightweight champion, had no trouble in outscoring Barton McAllister, Balham, 138¼, by 40-39 over eight.

McIvor was in command throughout, jabbing accurately, then, when he had his man on the run, increasing the tempo with two-handed attacks.

John Smith, Glasgow, 155, outpointed Dusty Smith, Stanmore, 157, over six by 29½-29¼. Dusty was decked in the fourth, and it wasn't a popular verdict.

Alan Reid, Glasgow, 150½, drew with Rod Griffiths, Harlesden, 149½, over six. Reid's accuracy was matched by Griffiths' aggression in an entertaining bout.

▲Bedfordshire Sporting Club—Steve Foley, Bedford, 177¼, stopped Alex Pernasky, Alfreton, 172, in three. Pernasky, making his debut, was down in the second.

Chris Destar, Bedford, 137¾, another debutant, outscored Ken Singlewood, Alfreton, 135, by 29½-29¼ over six.

Easy one for John Conteh, Liverpool, 187, knocking out American Johnny Hudgins, 191¼, in three. The first real punch, a right to the head, set the American up for a left to the body that decked him for five.

Another right floored him for nine, and although he survived this and the second round a left to the body stretched him out for the full count in round three. It was some time before he was able to leave his corner.

This year's Olympic Bronze Medallist Alan Minter, Crawley, 161½, won his second pro bout as he did the first, inside the distance. He stopped substitute John Lowe, Middlesbrough, 160, in three. Lowe hadn't been down, but was on the receiving end, and Minter is already showing maturity.

No trouble for Les Stevens, Reading, 191½, who stopped American Rene Kinsey, 195¼, in six. Gameness was all that Kinsey had to offer, and he had a swelling under the left eye when the referee halted matters.

Southern Area middleweight champion Kevin Finnegan, Cowley, 161, retrieved the family honor by outpointing Carlos Marks, Trinidad, 159, over eight by 39¾-38¾.

Finnegan boxed competently and punched hard. Marks has skill, but is not a hard hitter, and Kevin was well on top at the close.

Graham Sines, Battersea, 176¾, who has now moved down to the cruiserweight division, knocked out George Lewis, Harlesden, 175½, in two. A left hook to the body gave Lewis no chance of beating the count.

▲National Sporting Club, London—Howard Sharpe, Jamaica, 164, avenged a previous defeat by outpointing Ronnie Hough, Liverpool, 163½, over eight by 39½-39¼. The decision was booed, and Sharpe appeared fortunate.

Hough went after his man from the start, and looked to land the majority of the scoring punches in a bout that did not excite.

John Mitchell, Kilmarnock, 123, stopped Orizu Obilaso, Nigeria, 121, in the seventh. Substitute Obilaso was down for seven in that round.

Pat Thompson, Islington, 175, drew with Vernon Shaw, Eltham, 173, over six, but this verdict didn't please the members, and Thompson looked unlucky as he jabbed accurately in every round.

Both making their pro debuts, Dai Davies, Swansea, 126, outscored Joey Deriu, Cardiff, 123½, over six by 30-29. The margin seemed closer.

An Important Message

To Every Man And Woman

In America

Losing His Or Her Hair

If you are troubled by thinning hair, dandruff, itchy scalp, if you fear approaching baldness, read the rest of this statement carefully. It may mean the difference to you between saving your hair and losing the rest of it to eventual baldness.

Baldness is simply a matter of subtraction. When the number of new hairs fail to equal the number of falling hair, you end up minus your head of hair (bald). Why not avoid baldness by preventing unnecessary loss of hair? Why not turn the tide of battle on your head by eliminating needless causes of hair loss and give Nature a chance to grow more hair for you? Many of the country's dermatologists and other foremost hair and scalp specialists believe that seborrhea, a common scalp disorder, causes hair loss. What is seborrhea? It is a bacterial infection of the scalp that can eventually cause permanent damage to the hair follicles. Its visible evidence is "thinning" hair. Its end result is baldness. Its symptoms are dry, itchy scalp, dandruff, oily hair, head scales, and progressive hair loss.

So, if you are beginning to notice that your forehead is getting larger, beginning to notice that there is too much hair on your comb, beginning to be worried about the dryness of your hair, the itchyness of your scalp, the ugly dandruff — these are Nature's Red Flags warning you of impending baldness. Even if you have been losing your hair for some time, don't let seborrhea rob you of the rest of your hair.

HOW COMATE WORKS ON YOUR SCALP

The development of an amazing new hair and scalp medicine called Comate is specifically designed to control seborrhea and stop the hair loss it causes. It offers the opportunity to thousands of men and women losing their hair to bacterial infection to reverse the battle they are now losing on their scalps. By stopping this impediment to normal hair growth, new hairs can grow as Nature intended.

This is how Comate works: (1) It combines in a single scalp treatment the essential corrective factors for normal hair growth. By its rubifacient action it stimulates blood circulation to the scalp, thereby supplying more nutrition to still-alive hair follicles. (2) As a highly effective antiseptic, Comate kills on contact the seborrhea-causing scalp bacteria believed to be a cause of baldness. (3) By its keratolitic action it dissolves ugly dandruff. By tending to normalize the lubrication of the hair shaft it corrects excessively dry and oily hair. It eliminates head scales and scalp itch.

In short, Comate offers you in a single treatment the best that modern medicine has developed for the preservation of your hair. There is no excuse today except ignorance for any man or woman to neglect seborrhea and pay the penalty of hair loss.

COMATE IS UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED

To you we offer this UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE. Treat your scalp to Comate in your own home, following the simple directions. See for yourself in your own mirror how after a few treatments, Comate makes your hair look thicker and alive. How Comate ends your dandruff, stops your scalp itch. How Comate gives your hair a chance to grow. Most men and women report results after the first treatment, some take longer. But we say this to you. If, for any reason, you are not completely satisfied with the improvement in your own case — AT ANY TIME — return the unused portion for a prompt refund. No questions asked.

But don't delay. For the sake of your hair, order Comate today. Nothing — not even Comate — can grow hair from dead follicles. Fill out the coupon now, and take the first step toward a good head of hair again.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of the great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss. In such cases neither the Comate treatment nor any other treatment is effective.

"This career offers every financial and personal reward," writes Fred C. Koerner, Jr., one of the nation's leading Legal Investigators.

"The Legal Investigator is a man whose work is to seek the truth, to discover facts. He never has to question the value or meaning of his job. The variety of experience is exciting. The association with attorneys, the courts, the law is deeply satisfying. And the security of the profession is sound because of the constantly growing need for trained Legal Investigators throughout the nation."

Universal Graduates Comment on Their Careers In Legal Investigation

"Thank you for the wonderful training. I now have my own successful business."
James Williams, Kentucky

"Earnings climbing — impossible for me to put a value on my training from Universal Schools."
A. L. Davidson, Idaho

"Your school gave me the front door to success. I have a growing business."
A. L. Goan, Tennessee

Think what this career could mean to your life and income: You are a key employee of influential law firms. Your friends and associates are leading trial attorneys. Dramatic court actions may turn on evidence you discover. You are surrounded by the prestige and power of the legal profession—in perfect position to become one of the top earners in your community.

These tremendous advantages can be yours soon if you train now to be a Legal Investigator. Legal Investigators are men who are especially trained to handle pre-trial investigations for lawyers.

You Search For Truth

As a Legal Investigator you gather the evidence, the witnesses, the facts the attorney must have before he goes to court or attempts to settle a lawsuit.

Your fascinating job is to search out the truth–the whole truth–in a lawsuit; your work is a pursuit of justice.

Widespread Need For Trained Men

Today there's a growing need for many more trained Legal Investigators wherever lawyers practice—in cities, towns, rural counties. Here's why:

More lawsuits are being started now than at any time in legal history. Good trial lawyers are overwhelmed with work. Courts are clogged with cases. Tens-of-thousands of new lawsuits are started every year.

Every case requires days, weeks, even months, of pre-trial investigation. Busy trial lawyers no longer have time to do all this work alone. They need the help of trained Legal Investigators. That need means rare opportunity for you.

Train At Home In Your Spare Time

You can rapidly qualify to be a Legal Investigator through spare time study at home. You simply read fascinating lessons mailed to you from Universal Schools, largest training organization in the field. No college or experience required.
